Offensive Weapons Treaty Faces Fight

Senate Ratifies ABM Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has ratified a historic treaty limiting the spread of Soviet and American defensive missiles.

The 88-2 roll-call vote Thursday cleared the way for later consideration of the more controversial five-year SALT agreement on offensive nuclear weapons.

The treaty was opposed only by Sens. James B. Allen D-Ala. and James Buckley, Con.-R-N.Y. who contended it is immoral because it causes the United States to forego an available means of defending its population against potential nuclear attack.

Signed by President Nixon and Soviet Premier Leonid Brezhnev in Moscow last May 25, the treaty limits each nation to 200 antiballistic missiles and just two sites — one at the capital and one in the interior of the country.

The White House said Nixon was pleased with the ratification vote and "looks forward to prompt action" on the companion interim agreement.

Heated debate is likely as the Senate moves on to consider the agreement which allows the Soviet Union to surpass the United States in the numbers of land- and sea-based nuclear offensive missiles.

The treaty needed only Senate approval, but the agreement must be acted upon by both chambers.

The agreement places ceilings on both nations' nuclear arsenals, and the Nixon administration has contended it will have the effect of breaking the momentum of the recent Soviet arms buildup.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., challenged that view and announced he will seek to amend the agreement, by adding a warning to the Soviets that any move to increase their offensive capability so as to threaten the American nuclear deterrent would be considered a threat to the United States.

Jackson sought also to put Congress on record as directing the President to seek equality of numbers in the next round of SALT negotiations with the Soviets.

Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., and other Democrats expressed surprise and dismay when told the Jackson amendment had the backing of Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and the Nixon administration.

Administration witnesses

asked for no such provision when testifying on the agreement Fulbright said.

The agreement limits the United States to 1,054 land-based missiles, but allows the Soviets 1,618. It restricts the United States to 41 Polaris submarines with 16 missiles each, and the Soviets to 62 Y-class subs with 16 missiles each.

But there is no limit on the number of warheads for each missile, or on modernization of the weapons covered. The United States is considered ahead of the Soviets in multiple-warhead technology.

Manpower Shortage Hits 7th Fleet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The buildup of U.S. warships off Vietnam into the largest naval armada since World War II has created a manpower shortage in the 7th Fleet, prompting requests that men ashore voluntarily go back to sea.

Navy spokesmen say this was one of several steps taken within the past few weeks to help fill the gap and bring relief to crews working round the clock in launching carrier-based air strikes over Indochina.

Men with critical job skills now serving with the 7th Fleet have been asked to extend expiring enlistments, at least until their vessels return home.

In addition, the Navy has sent letters to 80,000 reservists asking them to come back voluntarily for one year. It hopes 2,000 will respond.

Nearly 40,000 men are aboard U.S. ships in the Gulf of Tonkin following the buildup, which began four months ago in response to the North Vietnamese offensive.

The Navy said it cannot fill the vacancies with new recruits because it needs experienced personnel "With the high tempo of the operations, they've been pressed to the wall out there," says a Bureau of Naval Personnel spokesman.

Before asking for volunteers, the Navy said, about 600 men were ordered from shore stations. Their jobs ashore were filled by women for the first time, the spokesman said.

"We may have to reconsider (less desirable alternatives) including a further drawdown of personnel assigned to support and training activities ashore and a further drawdown of non-deployed ships and aircraft squadrons."

However, the spokesman said these steps will not be taken "unless the situation becomes critical."

Officials say it is too early to gauge the response to the call for volunteers.

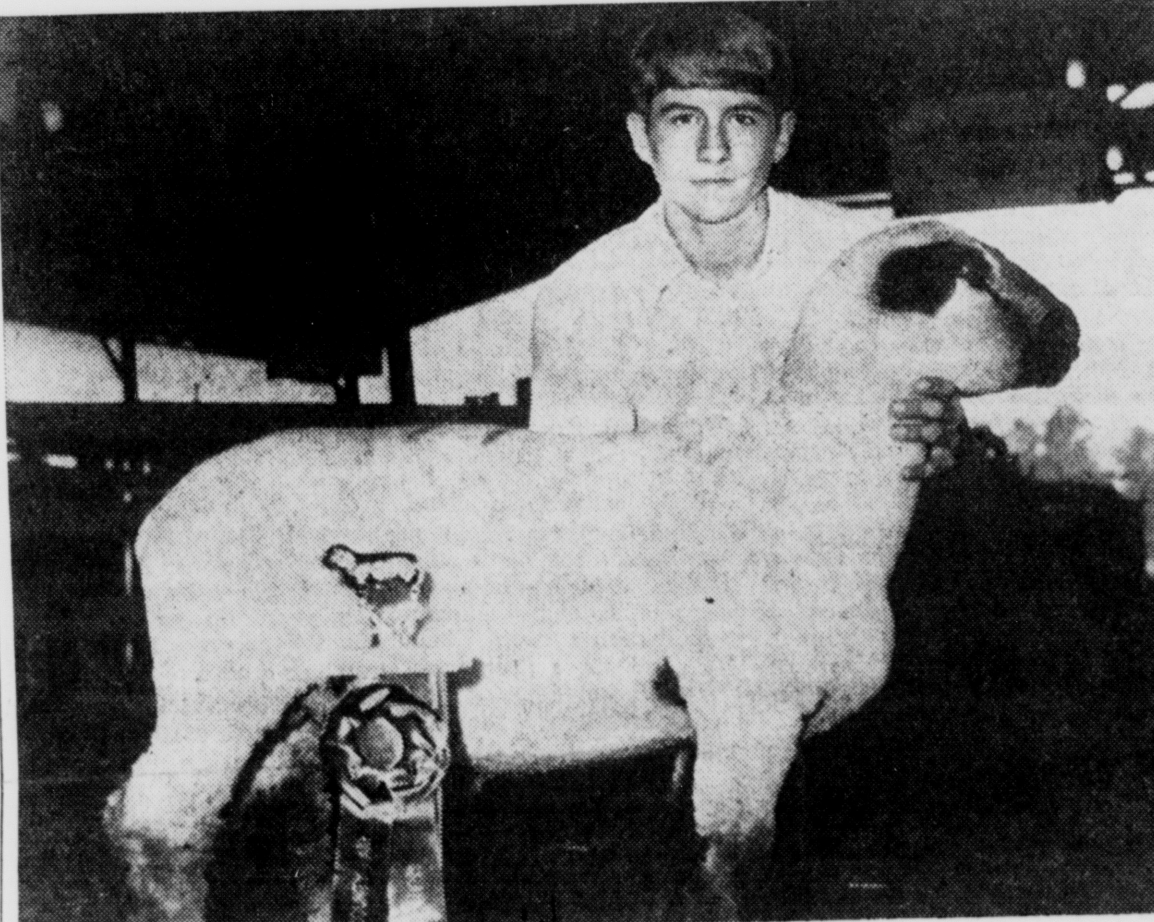

Find Canned Corn Spoilage; Recalled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Department of Agriculture has recalled 1,315 17-ounce cans of "Red and White brand Whole Kernel Golden Sweet Corn" after a Columbus woman complained a can she bought was spoiled.

The department verified the food was bad at its Reynoldsburg laboratories. Director Gene Abercrombie said the spoilage resulted from improper sealing.

Abercrombie said all unsold cans had been taken off store shelves.

Rain Swamps Central U.S.

Flash Flooding In Several Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy thunderstorms dumped torrential rains across the nation's midsection Thursday night and early today, triggering flash flooding in parts of Kentucky and West Virginia.

Up to five inches swamped Morehead, Ky., in a four-hour period.

At Carbondale, in Southern Illinois, some residents traveled the streets in canoes when the water reached the tops of automobile hoods. Three and a half inches of rain poured down in an hour there.

Less-potent rainstorms extended from New England across the Ohio Valley to the southern Rockies.

The Southeast again sweltered in warm, humid conditions, while in the North an autumn-like coolness prevailed.

Predawn temperatures dipped to the chilly 40s under fair skies along the Northern border states.

The Far West again was shielded from the weather system that dampened most of the nation this whole week. The Pacific Coast was cool, but in the Southwestern desert areas the temperatures were expected to continue well above the 100 mark.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 40 at Marquette, Mich., to 95 at Needles, Calif.

Praise Ohio For Pollution Crisis Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Federal officials are so favorably impressed by state action in a recent Ohio air pollution crisis that they have asked Atty. Gen. William Brown to prepare a set of guidelines for other states to follow in similar situations.

During an air stagnation crisis in Steubenville last month, Brown's office obtained 25 temporary restraining orders against major area polluters. The orders were not enforced, since the firms cooperated voluntarily.

Maurice Coburn, regional counsel of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, said the attorney general "pioneered in carrying out emergency air alert procedures on the state level."

Brown also sent staff members to Steubenville to see that other industries took steps to avoid air pollution during the crisis, working in conjunction with the state Department of Health.

He said the requested recommendations would be forwarded to the EPA within three weeks, adding, "I hope the lessons we have learned can be of help to other states. . . . We are certainly ready to proceed at a moment's notice should another emergency arise."

Revenue Sharing Restudy Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee was urged today to re-examine the basic concepts behind a House-passed revenue-sharing bill in light of an anticipated $30-billion federal deficit.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., made public a letter to Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., saying other ways should be sought to "help local and state governments improve their fiscal situation."

Ohio Prison System Gets Computer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State corrections officials next year will have instant access via computer to the case histories of all of Ohio's 9,600 prison inmates.

Such information as prisoners' police records, psychological test results and educational and social backgrounds will be stored in a computer to be shared by the state Finance Department. The project is being financed with a $450,000 federal grant.

Bennett Cooper, director of the Department of Rehabilitation and Corrections, says the system "will greatly improve our efficiency."

His department headquarters in Columbus and the right major Ohio prisons will be linked, by the system.

The game was made under the federal Omnibus Crime Control Act, as was another, for $445,000, earmarked for expansion of the Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation at London.

Bureau Supt. Dwight Joseph said the latter money would be used to hire 21 additional investigators and possibly to construct a new laboratory at Cambridge.

He has received 300 new cards.

Midway Chatter

A rather small crowd (about half the grandstand area was full) was treated with an excellent production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown," Thursday night as the featured attraction. The play, or rather interworking song and dance skits and routines, was presented by Ohio University summer theater and came complete with full sound and lighting, backdrop and props.

A Pony Show was held Thursday night beside the horse barns, again much to the enjoyment of all who participated and watched. The show was sponsored by advisers of county 4-H clubs for their club members and included such events as baby-bottle races and regular English classes.

The greased hog contest was cancelled due to lack of participants, according to the 4-H office. Seems funds would purchase only one pig for about 15 people to wrestle with.

A breeding gilt died of pneumonia Wednesday at the fair. It caused quite a scare and rumors spread fast and furious. But only one animal was lost. Hogs were released early, however, because of the death, and a number of owners took advantage of the early release to take their breeding animals home Thursday.

DECA Club is upset with The Herald concerning a comment in the Midway Chatter column this week. A letter from Debbie Coates, Connie Frazier, Denise Woods and Vicki Johnson, senior club members, says they made "quite a large sum" charging 75 cents for parking outside the Fairgrounds. Parking on the Fairgrounds is only 50 cents. The club notes it dropped its price to 50 cents, also. Mansel's Restaurant and Robinson's Car Wash donated their parking lots to the club.

Crowds at the fair still seem to be a little larger than a year ago. Tonight's grandstand attraction is the demolition derby. On top of the hill at the livestock arena the annual swine and sheep sale will be conducted by Bowling Stock Yard. Pony harness races were scheduled 2 p.m. today. Dairy classes in 4-H were judged today. And it all ends tonight.

Red China Reports Sweeping Progress Against Disease

By WES GALLAGHER

PEKING (AP) — The Chinese Communists have wiped out cholera, smallpox, plague and venereal disease, all once endemic in their country, a high official of the department of health reports.

The drug problem is nonexistent, Dr. Chen Hai-feng said in a long interview, due to a combination of education, strict control of drugs by the government and severe treatment of sellers 10-15 years ago.

Tuberculosis, typhoid, measles, chickenpox, malaria and snail fever, all of which once were rampant in China, are considered "controlled," the doctor said. "We cannot find venereal disease cases to show our medical students in colleges," Dr. Chen said.

A small, intense man, Dr. Chen explained the four-point aim of China's health program, which is not unlike those in the West, and also the medical structure which seems a key to China's success in programs that failed elsewhere in the world.

The four aims:

1. To direct medical work at the masses by putting medical workers into the field.

2. Prevention of disease by vaccines, sterilization of drinking water and attacking insects such as mosquitos and flies.

3. Combining Western and ancient Chinese herb medicines in new treatment.

4. Mass education of peasants and workers to understand the dangers of diseases and the worth of prevention measures.

These principles are administered through a detailed medical structure reaching units of 100 persons or less. China has 800 million people.

It had been thought previously that the "barefoot doctors" were the lowest level of the state medical program, but it goes farther down than that, to the "health worker," a part-time job. The health worker is trained to give injections and detect disease. His main strength is in knowing well everyone he deals with.

The health worker knows all that happens to his small group and can report to the barefoot-doctor level if a disease appears which he cannot handle.

Barefoot doctors, many of them women, have received three to four months' training in hospitals. They can administer Chinese herb medicines, acupuncture and some Western medicines. If the barefoot doctor finds a problem too complicated, he sends the patient to an outpatient clinic, staffed by regular nurses and doctors, for treatment. If the patient requires further treatment, he is sent to a hospital.

Obviously a disease cannot go long undetected at the health-worker level. The Chinese avoid saying that their vaccines and other preventive treatments are "compulsory," but it is obvious that treatment, if it is needed, is given one way or the other.

Dr. Chen placed considerable emphasis on the combination of Western and Chinese medicines as being helpful. He said that at first there had been conflict between doctors over the combination of Chinese herb medicine with the Western, but that it is now accepted.

He said the health ministry ordered all Chinese herb cures collected, beginning at the village level, and taken to university research departments for scientific analysis and experimental treatment. Those proved effective were adopted.

Many new treatments have been discovered combining the medicines of West and East. Among these, Dr. Chen mentioned a new treatment for severe burns to bring about quick healing with less necessity for skin grafts, better results in treatments of goiters, malaria

A rather small crowd (about half the grandstand area was full) was treated with an excellent production of "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Thursday night as the featured attraction. The play, or rather interworking song and dance skits and routines, was presented by Ohio University summer theater and came complete with full sound and lighting, backdrop and props.

A Pony Show was held Thursday night beside the horse barns, again much to the enjoyment of all who participated and watched. The show was sponsored by advisers of county 4-H clubs for their club members and included such events as baby-bottle races and regular English classes.

The greased hog contest was cancelled due to lack of participants, according to the 4-H office. Seems funds would purchase only one pig for about 15 people to wrestle with.

A breeding gilt died of pneumonia Wednesday at the fair. It caused quite a scare and rumors spread fast and furious. But only one animal was lost. Hogs were released early, however, because of the death, and a number of owners took advantage of the early release to take their breeding animals home Thursday.

DECA Club is upset with The Herald concerning a comment in the Midway Chatter column this week. A letter from Debbie Coates, Connie Frazier, Denise Woods and Vicki Johnson, senior club members, says they made "quite a large sum" charging 75 cents for parking outside the Fairgrounds. Parking on the Fairgrounds is only 50 cents. The club notes it dropped its price to 50 cents, also. Mansel's Restaurant and Robinson's Car Wash donated their parking lots to the club.

Crowds at the fair still seem to be a little larger than a year ago. Tonight's grandstand attraction is the demolition derby. On top of the hill at the livestock arena the annual swine and sheep sale will be conducted by Bowling Stock Yard. Pony harness races were scheduled 2 p.m. today. Dairy classes in 4-H were judged today. And it all ends tonight.

The doctor said.

"We cannot find venereal disease cases to show our medical students in colleges," Dr. Chen said.

A small, intense man, Dr. Chen explained the four-point aim of China's health program, which is not unlike those in the West, and also the medical structure which seems a key to China's success in programs that failed elsewhere in the world.

The four aims:

1. To direct medical work at the masses by putting medical workers into the field.

2. Prevention of disease by vaccines, sterilization of drinking water and attacking insects such as mosquitoes and flies.

3. Combining Western and ancient Chinese herb medicines in new treatment.

4. Mass education of peasants and workers to understand the dangers of diseases and the worth of prevention measures.

These principles are administered through a detailed medical structure reaching units of 100 persons or less. China has 800 million people.

It had been thought previously that the "barefoot doctors" were the lowest level of the state medical program, but it goes further down than that, to the "health worker," a part-time job. The health worker is trained to give injections and detect disease. His main strength is in knowing well everyone he deals with.

The health worker knows all that happens to his small group and can report to the barefoot-doctor level if a disease appears which he cannot handle.

Barefoot doctors, many of them women, have received three to four months' training in hospitals. They can administer Chinese herb medicines, acupuncture and some Western medicines. If the barefoot doctor finds a problem too complicated, he sends the patient to an outpatient clinic, staffed by regular nurses and doctors, for treatment. If the patient requires further treatment, he is sent to a hospital.

Obviously a disease cannot go long undetected at the health-worker level. The Chinese avoid saying that their vaccines and other preventive treatments are "compulsory," but it is obvious that treatment, if it is needed, is given one way or the other.

Dr. Chen placed considerable emphasis on the combination of Western and Chinese medicines as being helpful. He said that at first there had been conflict between doctors over the combination of Chinese herb medicine with the Western, but that it is now accepted.

He said the health ministry ordered all Chinese herb cures collected, beginning at the village level, and taken to university research departments for scientific analysis and experimental treatment. Those proved effective were adopted.

Many new treatments have been discovered combining the medicines of West and East. Among these, Dr. Chen mentioned a new treatment for severe burns to bring about quick healing with less necessity for skin grafts, better results in treatments of goiters, malaria

Praise Ohio For Pollution Crisis Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Federal officials are so favorably impressed by state action in a recent Ohio air pollution crisis that they have asked Atty. Gen. William Brown to prepare a set of guidelines for other states to follow in similar situations.

During an air stagnation crisis in Steubenville last month, Brown's office obtained 25 temporary restraining orders against major area polluters. The orders were not enforced, since the firms cooperated voluntarily.

Maurice Coburn, regional counsel of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, said the attorney general "pioneered in carrying out emergency air alert procedures on the state level."

Brown also sent staff members to Steubenville to see that other industries took steps to avoid air pollution during the crisis, working in conjunction with the state Department of Health.

He said the requested recommendations would be forwarded to the EPA within three weeks, adding, "I hope the lessons we have learned can be of help to other states. . . . We are certainly ready to proceed at a moment's notice should another emergency arise."

Revenue Sharing Restudy Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee was urged today to re-examine the basic concepts behind a House-passed revenue-sharing bill in light of an anticipated $30-billion federal deficit.

Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., made public a letter to Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., saying other ways should be sought to "help local and state governments improve their fiscal situation."

Man Charged In Double Auto Accidents

Roy C. May, 21, Sunbury, arrested for two counts of failing to stop at stop signs, one charge of failing to report an accident, and one driving while intoxicated after he drove his car into two separate ditches early Friday morning in northern Pickaway County.

Investigating Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal said May apparently ran through the stop sign at Perrill Rd. and Goodman Teegardin Rd. about 3 a.m. Friday, inflicting damage to a rod of fence and post, owned by Neil Brown, Route 1, Ashville, and minor damage to the car, which is owned by Harry Barnes, Delaware.

May apparently pulled his car from the ditch and drove to the intersection of Goodman Teegardin Rd. and the London Lancaster Rd., where he again drove into a ditch.

Deal arrested him at the scene of the second accident.

Red China . . .

China has not had a drug problem for many years. Dr. Chen said, and the health department was extremely angry at a story by a European correspondent that China was growing opium for export.

Provinces of China are given a great measure of autonomy in many matters of agriculture, he said, but not in the growth of drugs.

"We grow only enough for our own use—no more," Dr. Chen said. "If there are no drugs, there are no addicts."

Penalties for illegal drug sales are described as severe: he declined to specify the penalties. China, however, still has the death penalty for major offenses.

Upon coming to power, the Communists rounded up all addicts and gave them education and treatment. Dr. Chen said. The regime also rounded up all the sellers and dealt with them "severely." Since then China has been without a drug problem, he declared.

On venereal disease, the first step had been to round up prostitutes, treat them, educate them in the doctrines of Mao Tse-tung and disperse them to factories and farms, presumably to stay.

Special stations were set up to deal with venereal disease. Investigators were sent out to find cases and bring them in for treatment. Compulsory education was given in the dangers of venereal disease. Once this phase was completed, health workers took over. Any case tracked down was treated. The education campaign was pursued vigorously until the disease was considered eliminated.

Fire Destroys Vacant Barn

Harrison Twp. fire department was called to the Bell Station-Fairfield Road farm, owned by Dr. Hosler, Ashville, to control a barn fire 9 p.m. Thursday.

Lloyd Cook, Route 5, who lives on the farm, reported the fire.

The building was completely destroyed, according to the report.

Cook said two boys were in the barn about two hours prior to the fire. The boys apparently were burning burlap bags to control bees as they took honey from the walls.

Highway Land Cases Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Atty. Gen. William Brown says the number of highway land appropriation cases pending in his office has been reduced below 1,000 for the first time since 1963.

This has been accomplished, he said, with new procedures using a large number of part-time attorneys rather than a limited number of fulltime lawyers.

"We hope to reduce the number of back cases to approximately 60 within the near future," Brown said.

Roundtown Players monthly meeting will be held Monday 8 p.m. at Memorial Hall.

Theme of this month's meeting is "Each One Bring One." Each member is asked to invite one or several prospective members as his guests. Entertainment and refreshments are planned following the business meeting.

The club's next production is "My Fair Lady," which will be presented in November in the Players' auditorium in Memorial Hall. Anyone interested in helping with the production or taking part in the play is invited to attend the meeting Monday night.

Man Charged In Double Auto Accidents

Roy C. May, 21, Sunbury, arrested for two counts of failing to stop at stop signs, one charge of failing to report an accident, and one driving while intoxicated charge after he drove his car into two separate ditches early Friday morning in northern Pickaway County.

Investigating Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal said May apparently ran through the stop sign at Perrill Rd. and Goodman-Teegardin Rd. about 3 a.m. Friday, inflicting damage to a rod of fence and post, owned by Neil Brown, Route 1, Ashville, and minor damage to the car, which is owned by Harry Garmes, Delaware.

May apparently pulled his car from the ditch and drove to the intersection of Goodman-Teegardin Rd. and the London Lancaster Rd., where he again drove into a ditch.

Deal arrested him at the scene of the second accident.

and small fever, and treatment of fractures.

China has not had a drug problem for many years. Dr. Chen said, and the health department was extremely angry at a story by a European correspondent that China was growing opium for export.

Provinces of China are given a great measure of autonomy in many matters of agriculture, he said, but not in the growth of drugs.

"We grow only enough for our own use—no more," Dr. Chen said. "If there are no drugs, there are no addicts."

Penalties for illegal drug sales are described as severe—he declined to specify the penalties. China, however, still has the death penalty for major offenses.

Upon coming to power, the Communists rounded up all addicts and gave them education and treatment. Dr. Chen said. The regime also rounded up all the sellers and dealt with them "severely." Since then China has been without a drug problem, he declared.

On venereal disease, the first step had been to round up prostitutes, treat them, educate them in the doctrines of Mao Tse-tung and disperse them to factories and farms, presumably to stay.

Special stations were set up to deal with venereal disease. Investigators were sent out to find cases and bring them in for treatment. Compulsory education was given in the dangers of venereal disease. Once this phase was completed, health workers took over. Any case tracked down was treated. The education campaign was pursued vigorously until the disease was considered eliminated.

Fire Destroys Vacant Barn

Harrison Twp. fire department was called to the Bell-Station-Fairfield Road farm, owned by Dr. Hosler, Ashville, to control a barn fire 9 p.m. Thursday.

Lloyd Cook, Route 5, who lives on the farm, reported the fire.

The building was completely destroyed, according to the report.

Cook said two boys were in the barn about two hours prior to the fire. The boys apparently were burning burlap bags to control bees as they took honey from the walls.

Natural Gas Rate-Making Option Opened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission announced today a new optional rate-making procedure aimed at stimulating the production of natural gas.

The commission said producers will have the choice of accepting area rates under the old system or proving the need for higher rates for oil from wells brought into production after April 6.

Any higher rates approved by the commission would tend to stimulate and accelerate domestic exploration of gas reserves.

The commission said its action is designed to provide two incentives to domestic gas production, "both fully congruous with consumer protection":

1. The FPC will authorize sales of gas not previously deliverable to the interstate market at prices which are shown to be in the public interest.

2. To the extent possible, FPC will lessen the rate uncertainty which has prevailed since the early 1960s.

The new optional procedure is available only to producers bringing new supplies of gas to the interstate market. It applies to all of the nation's producing areas and rates under the new rules will be firm and not subject to refund.

Consumers will pay higher rates on new supplies to the extent that producers and pipeline companies prove the price is required by the public interest, the announcement said.

By STEVE JONES
Herald Editor

So your son or daughter wants to have a 4-H steer project after watching Thursday's Junior Fair Livestock Sale.

Well this story is for the inexperienced who think they can make their fortune feeding, showing and selling a 4-H steer. It's the story of my daughter, Jackie Jones, and her steer, Fred.

Fred became a "member" of the Jones family Dec. 31, 1971, the day before the deadline for having a steer in possession to be eligible as a 4-H project.

He weighed 520 pounds and was purchased at $34.50 per hundred a total of $179.40. Fred was not fed a common feed, but an especially formulated ration. A 295-pound batch contained 100 pounds of fitting ration, 10 pounds of cattle supplement, five pounds of ruminant pellets, 100 pounds of corn, 70 pounds of oats and 10 pounds of molasses. Cost was about $11 per batch, varying slightly with the market fluctuations of the ingredients during the 214 days Fred was on feed.

HE gained 410 pounds during his feeding period, just over 1.9 pounds per day. Not too good. Cost of putting that gain on was about 36½ cents per pound. Feed costs totaled $149.50. Other costs included veterinary fees, trucking, halters and other tack equipment and selling fees for a total of about $36.

Jackie's investment in Fred, not including the time spent with feeding, keeping his stall clean and training him, was $376.40. A few expenses, such as capital improvements to his stall, a tack box to take to the fair to keep halters and other equipment safe, and feed bunk were not included since they can be utilized for other purposes around the farm.

At the sale, Fred was purchased by John Davis, buyer for Ohio Packing Company, Columbus, for $43 per hundredweight. His adjusted selling weight after a three per cent shrink was deducted, was 902 pounds. Gross selling price was $387.86. Net profit, $11.46. Actually, Jackie will bank more than that since the only expense she will actually pay is the original cost of the steer. Her grandfather provided the corn and her parents paid for the supplement and other ingredients used in the feed.

But the dollars and cents view is only a part of the picture of raising a 4-H steer.

It was ironic that Fred should be given number 007 when he was weighed at the fairgrounds, for he became quite an escape artist during his short life as a Jones. He first got out of his warm and cozy barn on the coldest day of the winter. After eluding his pursuers for what seemed an eternity on that bitterly cold day, he finally decided it was time to return to his stall for the evening feeding.

He escaped again on what must have been the hottest day of the summer. The amorous rascal forgot about his "operation" and eloped with the neighbor's herd of Hereford cows. This time, he was gone the better part of three days.

Finally cornered and roped in the neighbor's barn, about half a mile down the road, Jackie's father decided it was time the animal was taught to be led.

"Get the halter, Jackie. We're going to lead Fred home," said dumb dad.

Guess who led who. They turned the first quarter in jig time. It's amazing how fast a 41-year-old dumb dad can run while hanging on to the end of a lead rope, being towed along by an 800 pound steer.

Fortunately about halfway home Fred stopped for a rest near a telephone pole. The next couple of hundred yards went at a more leisurely pace, but suddenly Fred decided to sprint the "last lap" and the steer and dumb dad turned into the barnlot on two wheels.

Needless to say, that was the end of the training until a few long unused muscles got over their soreness.

Until a week before the fair, Fred's training was confined to his stall in the barn. Then the Monday before the fair, he was taken outside for the "tractor treatment." A long rope was looped around his neck and tied to a tractor and his lead halter was put in place. After a few test lunges against the long rope Fred realized he wasn't going anywhere and quieted down.

Then training started. When Fred failed to respond to a few husky tugs on the lead halter, the tractor was put in gear. It was either come or be choked.

THIS worked surprisingly well and within half an hour Fred was responding. So he was untied from the tractor and dumb dad led him around the lot, quite successfully. The next step was for Jackie to take over the leading, and she got along very well... until it came time to return to his stall. At the first sight of the barn door he bolted, and down through the field he went, with Jackie hanging on for dear life. About a hundred yards from the barn he came up against a fence, whirled and trampled his young owner under foot. She let go of the lead rope. But Fred was soon cornered, and became quite docile when dumb dad took hold of the lead rope.

A couple of nights later, it was time for Fred's first bath. He was led outside and tied to a wagon. A well-meaning visitor at the farm thought Fred was such a lovable animal that she tried to pat him on the head. Fred didn't take too kindly to that. He slipped from his halter more quickly than Houdini ever escaped from a straight jacket and headed for open spaces. He was soon corralled and returned to his pen, without his bath.

The next night he was washed, and had another training session which went without incident until it was time to return to his barn. Again he bolted with Jackie, trampled her under foot and headed for the woods — 30 acres of it thicker than it was in 1803 when Ohio became a state. After a 30 minute chase, Fred was cornered, about half a mile from home.

Again, as soon as dumb dad touched the lead halter, he became a changed animal and led quietly all the way back to the barn. No more chances were taken.

He was not removed from the barn again until he was loaded on the truck for his trip to the fair. At the fair he was unloaded as closely as possible to his stall where he was secured with two halters. He was removed from his stall for a brief training session Monday, for a bath and another brief training session Tuesday, to be weighed Tuesday, for a short walk around the ring early Wednesday before judging began, for the show and finally for the sale, all without further incident.

No tears were shed when Fred finally was loaded in the truck for his last ride to the packing company. But Jackie will very probably be back in that ring again next year with another steer. Hopefully, dumb dad won't be so dumb. And until it has been experienced, no one can appreciate the thrill of accomplishment the young owners get from raising and showing their animal.

Fred, by the way, was not named after Fred Sandrock, Pickaway County 4-H Agent, but after Jackie's three 4-H market hogs of last year, all of whom were called Fred. They may or may not have been named after Fred Sandrock, nobody remembers for sure now.

The mean temperature in West Virginia is 55.6, ranging from January's average of 36.6 degrees to an average 74.9 degrees in July.

So You Want To Raise A 4-H Steer

By STEVE JONES
Herald Editor

So your son or daughter wants to have a 4-H steer project after watching Thursday's Junior Fair Livestock Sale.

Well this story is for the inexperienced who think they can make their fortune feeding, showing and selling a 4-H steer. It's the story of my daughter, Jackie Jones, and her steer, Fred.

Fred became a "member" of the Jones family Dec. 31, 1971, the day before the deadline for having a steer in possession to be eligible as a 4-H project.

He weighed 520 pounds and was purchased at $34.50 per hundred a total of $179.40. Fred was not fed a common feed, but an especially formulated ration. A 295-pound batch contained 100 pounds of fitting ration, 10 pounds of cattle supplement, five pounds of ruminant pellets, 100 pounds of corn, 70 pounds of oats and 10 pounds of molasses. Cost was about $11 per batch, varying slightly with the market fluctuations of the ingredients during the 214 days Fred was on feed.

HE gained 410 pounds during his feeding period, just over 1.9 pounds per day. Not too good. Cost of putting that gain on was about 36½ cents per pound. Feed costs totaled $149.50. Other costs included veterinary fees, trucking, halters and other tack equipment and selling fees for a total of about $36.

Jackie's investment in Fred, not including the time spent with feeding, keeping his stall clean and training him, was $376.40. A few expenses, such as capital improvements to his stall, a tack box to take to the fair to keep halters and other equipment safe, and feed bunk were not included since they can be utilized for other purposes around the farm.

At the sale, Fred was purchased by John Davis, buyer for Ohio Packing Company, Columbus, for $43 per hundredweight. His adjusted selling weight after a three per cent shrink was deducted, was 902 pounds. Gross selling price was $387.86. Net profit, $11.46. Actually, Jackie will bank more than that since the only expense she will actually pay is the original cost of the steer. Her grandfather provided the corn and her parents paid for the supplement and other ingredients used in the feed.

But the dollars and cents view is only a part of the picture of raising a 4-H steer.

It was ironic that Fred should be given number 007 when he was weighed at the fairgrounds, for he became quite an escape artist during his short life as a Jones. He first got out of his warm and cozy barn on the coldest day of the winter. After eluding his pursuers for what seemed an eternity on that bitterly cold day, he finally decided it was time to return to his stall for the evening feeding.

He escaped again on what must have been the hottest day of the summer. The amorous rascal forgot about his "operation" and eloped with the neighbor's herd of Hereford cows. This time, he was gone the better part of three days.

***
FINALLY cornered and roped in the neighbor's barn, about half a mile down the road, Jackie's father decided it was time the animal was taught to be led.

"Get the halter, Jackie. We're going to lead Fred home," said dumb dad.

Guess who led who. They turned the first quarter in jig time. It's amazing how fast a 4-year-old dumb dad can run while hanging on to the end of a lead rope, being towed along by an 800 pound steer.

Fortunately about halfway home Fred stopped for a rest near a telephone pole. The next couple of hundred yards went at a more leisurely pace, but suddenly Fred decided to sprint the "last lap" and the steer and dumb dad turned into the barnlot on two wheels.

Needless to say, that was the end of the training until a few long unused muscles got over their soreness.

Until a week before the fair, Fred's training was confined to his stall in the barn. Then the Monday before the fair, he was taken outside for the "tractor treatment." A long rope was looped around his neck and tied to a tractor and his lead halter was put in place. After a few test lunges against the long rope Fred realized he wasn't going anywhere and quieted down.

Then training started. When Fred failed to respond to a few husky tugs on the lead halter, the tractor was put in gear. It was either come or be choked.

THIS worked surprisingly well and within half an hour Fred was responding. So he was untied from the tractor and dumb dad led him around the lot, quite successfully. The next step was for Jackie to take over the leading, and she got along very well...until it came time to return to his stall. At the first sight of the barn door he bolted, and down through the field he went, with Jackie hanging on for dear life. About a hundred yards from the barn he came up against a fence, whirled and trampled his young owner under foot. She let go of the lead rope. But Fred was soon cornered, and became quite docile when dumb dad took hold of the lead rope.

A couple of nights later, it was time for Fred's first bath. He was led outside and tied to a wagon. A well-meaning visitor at the farm thought Fred was such a lovable animal that she tried to pat him on the head. Fred didn't take too kindly to that. He slipped from his halter more quickly than Houdini ever escaped from a straight jacket and headed for open spaces. He was soon corralled and returned to his pen, without his bath.

The next night he was washed, and had another training session which went without incident until it was time to return to his barn. Again he bolted with Jackie, trampled her under foot and headed for the woods — 30 acres of it thicker than it was in 1803 when Ohio became a state. After a 30 minute chase, Fred was cornered, about half a mile from home.

Again, as soon as dumb dad touched the lead halter, he became a changed animal and led quietly all the way back to the barn. No more chances were taken.

He was not removed from the barn again until he was loaded on the truck for his trip to the fair. At the fair he was unloaded as closely as possible to his stall where he was secured with two halters. He was removed from his stall for a brief training session Monday, for a bath and another brief training session Tuesday, to be weighed Tuesday, for a short walk around the ring early Wednesday before judging began, for the show and finally for the sale, all without further incident.

No tears were shed when Fred finally was loaded in the truck for his last ride to the packing company. But Jackie will very probably be back in that ring again next year with another steer. Hopefully, dumb dad won't be so dumb. And until it has been experienced, no one can appreciate the thrill of accomplishment the young owners get from raising and showing their animal.

Fred, by the way, was not named after Fred Sandrock, Pickaway County 4-H Agent, but after Jackie's three 4-H market hogs of last year, all of whom were called Fred. They may or may not have been named after Fred Sandrock, nobody remembers for sure now.

The mean temperature in West Virginia is 55.6, ranging from January's average of 36.6 degrees to an average 74.9 degrees in July.

Natural Gas Rate-Making Option Opened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Power Commission announced today a new optional rate-making procedure aimed at stimulating the production of natural gas.

The commission said producers will have the choice of accepting area rates under the old system or proving the need for higher rates for oil from wells brought into production after April 6.

Any higher rates approved by the commission would tend to stimulate and accelerate domestic exploration of gas reserves.

The commission said its action is designed to provide two incentives to domestic gas production. "Both fully congruous with consumer protection":

1. The FPC will authorize sales of gas not previously deliverable to the interstate market at prices which are shown to be in the public interest.

2. To the extent possible, FPC will lessen the rate uncertainty which has prevailed since the early 1960s.

The new optional procedure is available only to producers bringing new supplies of gas to the interstate market. It applies to all of the nation's producing areas and rates under the new rules will be firm and not subject to refund.

Consumers will pay higher rates on new supplies to the extent that producers and pipeline companies prove the price is required by the public interest, the announcement said.

Gun For Pilots Blows Up Sharks

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Researchers at the Goodyear Aerospace Corp. say they have developed a gun which fires carbon dioxide pellets for inflating sharks.

The gun, developed as part of a $40,000 Air Force contract covering all aspects of pilot protection, would be for use by pilots who find themselves suddenly floating around in shark-infested waters.

Tax Optimism

How ridiculous it is for some members of Congress to talk of a need for general tax increases next year was voiced before a congressional committee by Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

"There has not been a general increase in taxes in peacetime since 1932," Stein told the Joint Economic Committee, "and that was not a very happy experience."

Other administration spokesmen, including Treasury Secretary George Shultz and Office of Management and Budget Director Casper Weinberger, have been saying much the same thing in other public forums.

As the fiscal situation now stands, the administration is predicting a budget deficit for fiscal 1973 of $27 billion, somewhat higher than the $23 billion deficit in the year which ended last June 30. But the fiscal 1972 deficit was considerably lower than the $38 billion which had been forecast earlier.

What is happening is that the economy is picking up steam rapidly from month to month. It is growing rapidly enough that administration budget managers believe the current fiscal year can overcome an error in federal tax withholding last year which caused too much in taxes to be withheld. That overcharge will be rebated this year when tax returns are filed.

There are many unknowns still to be entered into the fiscal year now underway, including unanticipated new spending programs by Congress. But after much pessimistic talk earlier about the need for new taxes, the more optimistic prognostications being heard today are certainly welcome.

Competition: Catalyst

There are indications in some industries that traditional management-labor relations in the United States are taking a turn toward better cooperation. The common goal of increased productivity in the face of stiff foreign competition is the catalyst.

Railroad unions have agreed to the gradual abolition of foremen on freights, through attrition. Steel management and unions are meeting regularly to discuss ways of increasing productivity, although they have not yet produced significant agreements.

In other industries, construction among them, evidence can be found of greater interest in eliminating work restrictions and other wasteful practices. Competition has a way of overcoming many industrial arguments, when its voice becomes insistent enough.

Are Quotas Constitutional?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN
I can't say that I believe in a single prescription for saving the nation that has appeared in the Village Voice, which is the "with it" organ of the New York Left. It's editors are mired in all the fallacies that we mistook for wisdom at Lee Chumley's restaurant in Greenwich Village back in 1932, when the disoriented intellectuals were trying to decide between Howard Scott's Technocracy and the Communist program as set forth by William Z. Foster and Company.

Nevertheless, the Voice is the vehicle of one Leftist who knows how to read a crystal ball. He is Jack Newfield, who was perceptive enough to tell us, long in advance that a new wave of Populism was in the making and that the "prophetic minority" on Vietnam would someday be forcing the issue of winding up a detested war.

Newfield went to Miami Beach as a member of the New York delegation. He was disgusted with what he saw. The Democrats, he says, "did not make room for the white ethnic workingman." The McGovern guidelines "created quotas for women, youth and blacks, but none for poor people, or senior citizens, or ethnic minorities — Irish, Italian, Polish." In his own New York delegation Newfield couldn't find 40 Irish or Italian Catholics out of 278 people. It so happens that the Italians outnumber the blacks by two to one in New York State.

In the name of inclusion, then, the McGovern rules have become the engine of a new exclusion. Mr. Newfield calls it the "terrible new mistake."

The political error is bad enough; the Irish and the Italians who supported the Conservative Party's Jim Buckley for the Senate in 1970 on the law-and-order issue will be that much more confirmed in their feeling that the Democratic Party is no longer their party. But the deeper error in exalting abstract quotas is one of law. The idea of proportional representation by classes, ethnic groups, sex and age brackets runs head on into the constitutional guarantee that the privileges and immunities of the citizens shall be equal regardless of origins or economics. It is spelled out in the Fourteenth Amendment which the Supreme Court has invoked time after time in recent years: no person shall be denied "the equal protection of the laws."

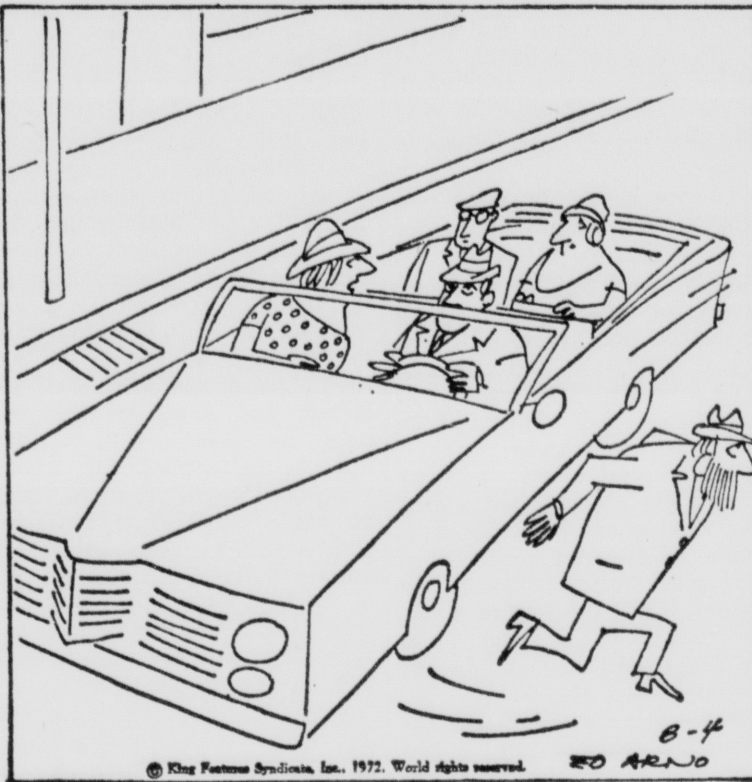

A quota system that specifies people must be black, or under 25, or female in fixed proportions in order to stand for election as delegates in a primary denies the right of individuals to compete as individuals or to vote for whatever representatives they choose. What the quota does is to assign arbitrary classification to people, which is to deny their common humanity. It tells blacks that they must be represented by blacks, women by women, young people by young people. But the Constitution recognizes people not by the amount of melanin in the skin, nor by sex; it calls all people citizens. The citizen has a right to be represented by any agent he chooses to represent him or her, irrespective of class, age, sex or whatever.

Thirty years ago, when I was teaching a course in journalism at Columbia University, my Jewish friends in New York used to rib me on the subject of quotas that effectively kept the proportion of Jews in American colleges from going above 10 per cent. The Columbia School of Journalism insisted at the time that enrollees must represent a geographical mix. The argument was that kids from Grand Street in New York should get to know boys and girls from the plains of Oklahoma and the mountains of Colorado. It was a plausible reason, but my Jewish friends questioned its sincerity. They insisted, quite justly, that this discriminated against their right to compete in the race to become journalists in accordance with standards of ability.

Quotas exclude even more than they include. Surely the courts, which have ruled time and again that the Fourteenth Amendment gives the cover of equal protection to every individual as an individual (one man, one vote and all that), will have to take a hard look at the McGovern Rules before we have another Jack Newfield complaining that the Irish, the Italians and the Poles, being in the wrong categories, couldn't make it to a national convention.

I rushed my 6-year old boy to the hospital when he fell from a jungle gym in the park. After waiting more than an hour, he was examined only by an interne who didn't take any X-rays or do any other tests.

Fortunately, he recovered. Wouldn't it have been wiser if a consultation with an older doctor had been made?

Mrs. T. M. Mane
Dear Mrs. M.:
The emergency room of a hospital is always filled with hectic activity. One very severe problem, such as a heart attack, a stroke, a fracture, an overdose of drugs, or a serious accident, can take all the manpower available.

People with injuries that are obviously not severe or life-threatening may be required to wait a little longer than they consider reasonable. It is understandable that everyone considers his own problem to be vital.

Emergency room personnel are trained to recognize those cases that require the most immediate attention. Their judgment is remarkably good. I am particularly interested in the way you described the doctor as "only" an interne.

It is a misconception that many people have concerning internes or residents in hospitals. These are full-fledged doctors who have completed all the basic requirements to practice medicine in any community.

They have chosen to further their training with postgraduate programs and are highly equipped to handle most of the emergencies that arise.

Your doctor apparently was correct in his judgment when he decided that X-rays were unnecessary. Had he indiscriminately ordered X-rays you might have waited a far longer time, and then perhaps have been irritated by what turned out to be an unnecessary delay.

Every hospital has on 24-hour call specialists in every field of medicine and surgery to whom the interne can turn if any special problem arises.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—Simple efficiencies in the use of electricity, mainly in lighting, could significantly reduce energy usage and reduce the impact of power shortages that exist in some regions and threaten elsewhere.

This is the considered judgment of many electrical engineers, who also claim that not only energy but many millions of dollars could be saved in operating costs.

At the recent annual meeting of the Illuminating Engineering Society, newly elected president Richard Dorsey of General Electric stated that 90 per cent of lighting systems produce only half as much light as possible for the energy consumed.

Other engineers claim that even those systems that deliver light efficiently still waste energy by generating so much heat that air-conditioning systems are forced to overwork.

The possible savings in energy and money have yet to be worked out, but it is estimated the buildings account for 20 per cent of that is for lighting. George Clark, IES senior vice president and engineering manager for special projects ofsylvania Electric, estimates that better usage in these structures could reduce their energy consumption by 15 to 25 per cent.

The critical nature of such shortages—even blackouts of savings is made clear in the perspective of rising energy increasing frequency and size—in some regions of the country.

The possible efficiencies about which Dorsey and Clark speak are possible not only through correction of wasteful practices of the past but through the use of relatively recent advances in producing more lumens from the same wattage.

An incandescent lamp, most widely recognized of all, produces only 10 lumens—a measure of light quantity—per watt. But more recently developed lamps produce 10 times as many lumens without color distortion.

Other efficiencies are possible, Clark said, through more frequent cleaning fixtures and a regular program of lamp replacement. Many lamps remain in use beyond their effective life, producing less light but using no less energy.

Additional savings, in money and energy, are possible through the utilization in winter of the heat from lights and through the use of available systems for drawing of that heat in summer, he said.

Few buildings are so equipped today, but Clark and others believe that as an energy ethic develops—as builders realize that rising energy costs and availability is critical—waste will decrease.

Among other suggestions for conserving energy: Switches that permit lights to be turned on or off in part of a room rather than in a larger area; focusing light in work areas with less in circulation or conversation places.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Jumping to conclusions: One of the surest signs a man is growing old is the development in him of new small habits of thrift—such as the saving of string or paper bags, tossed into a drawer. Nature, the great conservator, has whispered in his ear that the time of life has come when he cannot afford to throw anything away but must cling desperately to everything he has.

A majority of the working population of America seems to get its gears going in the morning with a cup of hot coffee and a piece of pastry or a doughnut.

How can a civilization endure if most of its people start each day with such a dietary disaster? Shades of our pioneer ancestors, who breakfasted on biscuits, butter, honey, eggs, bacon, ham or steak. But the good temper, digestion and endurance on the job of the average man would improve vastly if he did just one simple thing—replace the piece of pastry with a single hardboiled egg. Try this for two weeks yourself and see if you don't feel better.

You can't listen very long at a cocktail party to two people talk about their trip to Paris without one exclaiming, "And remember, on a bad morning, how well the strawberries went with the champagne?" And the other always murmurs assent and nods misty-eyed, and then a hushed reverent pause ensues as if everyone was in church. For crying out loud, doesn't anyone ever go to Paris, wake up with a hangover, and reach out shakily for a handful of leftover peanuts and a bottle of cola?

A healthy mind is one that doesn't clutter itself with small animosities or waste its energy on trifles. Resentment drains your energy, just as too many small leaks will in time empty a reservoir. If you let yourself be eroded by petty concerns, you will inevitably wind up petty-minded.

The very poor and the very rich are alike in some ways. Utter poverty can make a man as selfish and egotistical and arrogant as wealth can make a man who feels it is a cushion against consequences. Both pauper and prince tend to have deplorable manners, the one because he is naughty, the other

Security Agents Too Numerous

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Armed security agents were so numerous at Miami Beach hotels during the Democratic National Convention that they were arresting each other, a state report says.

The quarterly report of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement released Tuesday showed two armed men arrested at the campaign headquarters of Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace by agents of the state protective intelligence squad and the U.S. Secret Service.

The two were released, a department spokesman said, when it was determined they were properly licensed security agents.

Gene Long and Linda Trimmer were the King and Queen chosen for the 1962 Pickaway County Fair. Fifteen-year-old Miss Trimmer was a student of Logan Elm High School and Mr. Long, 16, attended Monroe High School. Runners up in the King and Queen contest were Rick Fenstermaker and Cathy Courtright.

Debbie Young, Connie Wright, and Patty Dumm combined in an act, "The Little Space Girl," and took the top honors for Pickaway Twp. 4-H clubs in the Talent show. Second went to Becky Alkire for her pantomime of "Wrap Your Troubles in Dreams," and third went to the Logan Elm Choralists' composed of Charlene Fullen, Susan Laveck, Janet DeLong, Brenda List, Cheryl Hulse, Terry Anderson, Jim Wilson, Eddie Umsted and Drexel Poling. They were accompanied by Sharon Sharrett and their song was "Joshua Fit the Battle of Jerico."

Miss Judy Dean was the owner of the 1962 Junior Fair Grand Champion Lamb, Terry Reed owned the Grand Champion Hog and Becky Kinsell was the proud owner of the Grand Champion Steer.

The Champion Steer was bought by the First National Bank at $1.10 per pound, the Champion Hog sold for $1.60 per pound and the Champion Lamb was sold at $2 per pound.

The Pickaway County Commissioners signed a contract paying the way for initial construction of the Ashville-Teays Valley Storm Sewer project.

Approximately 3560 employees and their families attended the annual John W. Eshelman Sons picnic at Gold Cliff Park. A chicken barbecue was the highlight of the day.

Carl Benhase, head football coach of the defending SCOL Champion Circleville Tigers, announced that football practice would officially begin Aug. 17. The coaching staff consisted of John Adler, guards and centers; Dick Fisher, backfield; and Jim Lint, ends and tackles.

The Circleville Board of Education hired Mrs. Melvin (Mary M.) Yates to fill the vacancy of trustee officer left by the retirement of Walter Benman.

Pickaway County Sheriff Walton Spangler performed the role of cupid in a lover's quarrel.

Spangler was called to the scene when a woman reported she had a fight with her boy friend and he was throwing rocks through the windows of her house.

The man told Spangler his "true love" had attacked him with a butcher knife, cutting his lips, hands, legs and body. He said this made him mad and that was the reason he threw stones through the windows.

Neither would file charges, and when the sheriff left the were back "biling and cooing."

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Aug. 4, the 217th day of 1972. There are 149 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1914, Britain declared war on Germany at the beginning of World War I.

In 1944, during World War II, Nazi police captured 14-year-old Anne Frank and seven other Jews in their hiding place in Amsterdam.

In 1955, 11 U.S. Air Force fliers captured during the Korean war reached Hong Kong after being freed from prison in China.

In 1963, it was disclosed that a former figure in the underworld, Joseph Valachi, had been supplying the FBI with information about a national crime syndicate.

They'll Do It Every Time

Tax Optimism

How ridiculous it is for some members of Congress to talk of a need for general tax increases next year was voiced before a congressional committee by Herbert Stein, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers.

"There has not been a general increase in taxes in peacetime since 1932," Stein told the Joint Economic Committee, "and that was not a very happy experience."

Other administration spokesmen, including Treasury Secretary George Shultz and Office of Management and Budget Director Casper Weinberger, have been saying much the same thing in other public forums.

As the fiscal situation now stands, the administration is predicting a budget deficit for fiscal 1973 of $27 billion, somewhat higher than the $23 billion deficit in the year which ended last June 30. But the fiscal 1972 deficit was considerably lower than the $38 billion which had been forecast earlier.

What is happening is that the economy is picking up steam rapidly from month to month. It is growing rapidly enough that administration budget managers believe the current fiscal year can overcome an error in federal tax withholding last year which caused too much in taxes to be withheld. That overcharge will be rebated this year when tax returns are filed.

There are many unknowns still to be entered into the fiscal year now underway, including unanticipated new spending programs by Congress. But after much pessimistic talk earlier about the need for new taxes, the more optimistic prognostications being heard today are certainly welcome.

Competition: Catalyst

There are indications in some industries that traditional management-labor relations in the United States are taking a turn toward better cooperation. The common goal of increased productivity in the face of stiff foreign competition is the catalyst.

Railroad unions have agreed to the gradual abolition of foremen on freights, through attrition. Steel management and unions are meeting regularly to discuss ways of increasing productivity, although they have not yet produced significant agreements.

In other industries, construction among them, evidence can be found of greater interest in eliminating work restrictions and other wasteful practices. Competition has a way of overcoming many industrial arguments, when its voice becomes insistent enough.

Are Quotas Constitutional?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

I can't say that I believe in a single prescription for saving the nation that has appeared in the Village Voice, which is the "with it" organ of the New York Left. It's editors are mired in all the fallacies that we mistook for wisdom at Lee Chumley's restaurant in Greenwich Village back in 1932, when the disoriented intellectuals were trying to decide between Howard Scott's Technocracy and the Communist program as set forth by William Z. Foster and Company.

Nevertheless, the Voice is the vehicle of one Leftist who knows how to read a crystal ball. He is Jack Newfield, who was perceptive enough to tell us, long in advance that a new wave of Populism was in the making and that the "prophetic minority" on Vietnam would someday be forcing the issue of winding up a detested war.

Newfield went to Miami Beach as a member of the New York delegation. He was disgusted with what he saw. The Democrats, he says, "did not make room for the white ethnic workingman." The McGovern guidelines "created quotas for women, youth and blacks, but none for poor people, or senior citizens, or ethnic minorities — Irish, Italian, Polish." In his own New York delegation Newfield couldn't find 40 Irish or Italian Catholics out of 278 people. It so happens that the Italians outnumber the blacks by two to one in New York State.

In the name of inclusion, then, the McGovern rules have become the engine of a new exclusion. Mr. Newfield calls it the "terrible new mistake."

The political error is bad enough; the Irish and the Italians who supported the Conservative Party's Jim Buckley for the Senate in 1970 on the law-and-order issue will be that much more confirmed in their feeling that the Democratic Party is no longer their party. But the deeper error in exalting abstract quotas is one of law. The idea of proportional representation by classes, ethnic groups, sex and age brackets runs head on into the constitutional guarantee that the privileges and immunities of the citizens shall be equal regardless of origins or economics. It is spelled out in the Fourteenth Amendment which the Supreme Court has invoked time after time in recent years: no person shall be denied "the equal protection of the laws."

A quota system that specifies people must be black, or under 25, or female in fixed proportions in order to stand for election as delegates in a primary denies the right of individuals to compete as individuals or to vote for whatever representatives they choose. What the quota does is to assign arbitrary classification to people, which is to deny their common humanity. It tells blacks that they must be represented by blacks, women by women, young people by young people. But the Constitution recognizes people not by the amount of melanin in the skin, nor by sex; it calls all people citizens. The citizen has a right to be represented by any agent he chooses to represent him or her, irrespective of class, age, sex or whatever.

Thirty years ago, when I was teaching a course in journalism at Columbia University, my Jewish friends in New York used to rib me on the subject of quotas that effectively kept the proportion of Jews in American colleges from going above 10 per cent. The Columbia School of Journalism insisted at the time that enrollees must represent a geographical mix. The argument was that kids from Grand Street in New York should get to know boys and girls from the plains of Oklahoma and the mountains of Colorado. It was a plausible reason, but my Jewish friends questioned its sincerity. They insisted, quite justly, that this discriminated against their right to compete in the race to become journalists in accordance with standards of ability.

Quotas exclude even more than they include. Surely the courts, which have ruled time and again that the Fourteenth Amendment gives the cover of equal protection to every individual as an individual (one man, one vote and all that), will have to take a hard look at the McGovern Rules before we have another Jack Newfield complaining that the Irish, the Italians and the Poles, being in the wrong categories, couldn't make it to a national convention.

Dayton City Transit To Be Condemned

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The attorney for the Miami Valley Regional Transit Authority said he will file a condemnation suit against the City Transit Co. system here within 10 days.

Attorney Harry Lawner told trustees of the transit authority he thinks a court decision on the value of CTC can be obtained in October if he files with Montgomery County Common Pleas Court now.

The authority has been negotiating with CTC since December, 1971, to settle the question of price. The two groups are about $2 million apart.

Lawner said trustees of transit authority want immediate possession of the CTC while a court or jury decides on a fair price.

Negotiations will continue while the suit is pending in hope of an agreement before October.

W.W. Owen, CTC president, said he believes a settlement is possible if the authority would let the company see its appraisal.

Fair Tickets

All you senior citizens (this is anyone age 55 and over) keep in mind that this writer has tickets for the Ohio State Fair that may be purchased at half price. They must be purchased before Sept. 1, however, as that is the day all sold tickets and monies must be returned to Mrs. Lorentz at the Pickaway County Senior Center. The tickets can be used for any day at the state fair. September 2 will be Pickaway County Senior Citizens day, though. On the fairgrounds are three tents geared to the senior citizens and if I remember correctly with a senior citizens admission ticket will be a fee shuttle bus pass. Remember now, the tickets CANNOT be purchased for half price at the fair gates. They must be bought from an authorized representative prior to arrival at the fair. Just give us a call if interested.

Beatrice Anderson, chairman of the United Methodist worship committee is eager for everyone to attend either Sunday School or Worship service (or both) this coming Sunday (Aug. 6) for the pleasure of hearing the C.C.I. She states that this group is different than theonethatsang at the father and son banquet. Sunday school at 9:30 a.m., worship service at 10:30.

'Twas a rather busy week end for Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Allen. Their guest for the entire weekend was Mr. Allen's cousin, Miss Bea Conkle of Columbus. Then on Sunday they had Gary and Sandy Wisecup (their granddaughter), Pat (Mrs. Jack) Clark (daughter) and granddaughter Dee Anne Clark. Later in the day they were pleased to have great-grandchildren Tracey Lynne and Brian Keith Wisecup join the family circle. Brian and Tracey had been the weekend pleasures of their Grandparents Wisecup at New Holland. The busy weekend was a celebration of Mr. C. C.'s eighty-first birthday. The traditional cake and ice cream was enjoyed Sunday evening with the Wisecup poodle, Brandy, right in the center of attraction.

This past Monday, Carmen, Amy and myself drove down to my mother's (Mrs. Earl Hardman) to be with my step-brother Marvin (Whitey) Hardman and his Betty Jo who are here from their Titusville, Fla. home for a visit. My sister Norma Fillfillan and her daughter Jo Lynne of Troy were there and our brother David Barnes. Later in the afternoon our Uncle George Runyon and daughter Diane of Columbus, Ind. and Aunt Goldie Ridinger of Yellowbud joined us.

It was a lovely family day — lots of fun and laughs but a little sad, too, when family members live so far away that a get together doesn't happen often enough. Then, again, maybe that is why it is so good when it does. "Whitey" and Betty Ji attended the thirtieth reunion of his Chillicothe High class on Saturday night and on Sunday enjoyed the Hardman family reunion at Yoctangee Park. "Whitey" has been associated with Cape Kennedy for a number of years but is anticipating a transfer to North Dakota. I write about them because he has quite a few relatives in and about the Circleville Herald reading area and also friends from good old CHS days.

Our Carmen thoroughly had a "ball" today what with the DuPont picnic at Gold Cliff where the two of us won three cakes at bingo; then in the evening we took her to the Field Day. Half of Williamsport was there, I do believe, but I'll forego trying to name anyone for fear I'll "blow" it like I did the affair at Laurelville when I forget to mention that the Mike Tarbills were there and also Ruth Long and Dolly Thompson (that's Marvie Baby's other half).

The Field Day was very well attended. In the music line there was something to please everyone — the Adelphi Band; Bob Braun and Cliff Lash with "oldies but goodies," a country and western group and for those who really groove to the rock sound — that was there, too. Can't say I dig their message but it is tolerable (at times).

Think about: We can hate evil so much that we forget to love good, and there is much that is good.

Dayton City Transit To Be Condemned

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The attorney for the Miami Valley Regional Transit Authority said he will file a condemnation suit against the City Transit Co. system here within 10 days.

Attorney Harry Lawner told trustees of the transit authority he thinks a court decision on the value of CTC can be obtained in October if he files with Montgomery County Common Pleas Court now.

The authority has been negotiating with CTC since December, 1971, to settle the question of price. The two groups are about $2 million apart.

Lawner said trustees of transit authority want immediate possession of the CTC while a court or jury decides on a fair price.

Negotiations will continue while the suit is pending in hope of an agreement before October.

W.W. Owen, CTC president, said he believes a settlement is possible if the authority would let the company see its appraisal.

Fair Tickets

All you senior citizens (this is anyone age 55 and over) keep in mind that this winter has tickets for the Ohio State Fair that may be purchased at half price. They must be purchased before Sept. 1, however, as that is the day all unsold tickets and monies must be returned to Mrs. Lorentz at the Pickaway County Senior Center. The tickets can be used for any day at the state fair. September 2 will be Pickaway County Senior Citizens day, though. On the fairgrounds are three tents geared to the senior citizens and if I remember correctly with a senior citizens admission ticket will be a fee shuttle bus pass. Remember now, the tickets CANNOT be purchased for half price at the fair gates. They must be bought from an authorized representative prior to arrival at the fair. Just give us a call if interested.

A peach of a gal is in the peaches state. Jamie Grigsby bid adieu to hubby Gene and sons Gene Jr. and Johnny the other day and accompanied her sister to Augusta, Ga. for several weeks visitation with home folks. Jamie will also be with relatives in Atlanta and many other Georgia towns.

Jim and Leah Maxson and their three, Jodi, Tony and Jamie of Marion were in our town for a day or two. One of the drawing cards was the annual Field Day at Clarksburg in which village the Maxsons used to reside. While here they were with Don and Ruby Garrison (Jim's mother).

Beatrice Anderson, chairman of the United Methodist worship committee is eager for everyone to attend either Sunday School or Worship service (or both) this coming Sunday (Aug. 6) for the pleasure of hearing the C.C.I. Harmonaires (Chillicothe Correctional Institute). Specializing in gospel music the Harmonaires are well received wherever they have appeared. She states that this group is different than the others that sang at the father and son banquet, Sunday school at 9:30 a.m., worship service at 10:30.

'Twas a rather busy week end for Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Allen. Their guest for the entire weekend was Mr. Allen's cousin, Miss Bea Conkle of Columbus. Then on Sunday they had Gary and Sandy Wiscup (their granddaughter), Pat (Mrs. Jack) Clark (daughter) and granddaughter Dee Anne Clark. Later in the day they were pleased to have great-grandchildren Tracey Lynne and Brian Keith Wiscup join the family circle. Brian and Tracey had been the weekend pleasures of their Grandparents Wiscup at New Holland. The busy weekend was a celebration of Mr. C. C.'s eighty-first birthday. The traditional cake and ice cream was enjoyed Sunday evening with the Wiscup poodle, Brandy, right in the center of attraction.

This past Monday, Carmen, Amy and myself drove down to my mother's (Mrs. Earl Hardman) to be with my step-brother Marvin (Whitey) Hardman and his Betty Jo who are here from their Titusville, Fla. home for a visit. My sister Norma Fillfillan and her daughter Jo Lynne of Troy were there and our brother David Barnes. Later in the afternoon our Uncle George Runyon and daughter Diane of Columbus, Ind. and Aunt Goldie Rittinger of Yellowbud joined us.

It was a lovely family day — lots of fun and laughs but a little sad, too, when family members live so far away that a get together doesn't happen often enough. Then, again, maybe that is why it is so good when it does. 'Whitey' and Betty Jo attended the thirtieth reunion of his Chillicothe High class on Saturday night and on Sunday enjoyed the Hardman family reunion at Vantagee Park. 'Whitey' has been associated with Cape Kennedy for a number of years but is anticipating a transfer to North Dakota. I write about them because he has quite a few relatives in and about the Circleville Herald reading area and also friends from good old CHS days.

Our Carmen thoroughly had a "ball" today what with the DuPont picnic at Gold Cliff where the two of us won three cakes at bingo; then in the evening we took her to the Field Day. Half of Williamsport was there, I do believe, but I'll forego trying to name anyone for fear I'll "blow" it like I did the affair at Laurelville when I forgot to mention that the Mike Tarbills were there and also Ruth Long and Dolly Thompson (that's Marvie Baby's other half).

The Field Day was very well attended. In the music line there was something to please everyone — the Adelphi Band, Bob Braun and Cliff Lash with "oldies but goodies," a country and western group and for those who really groove to the rock sound — that was there, too. Can't say I did their message but it is tolerable (at times).

Think about: We can hate evil so much that we forget to love good, and there is much that is good.

and Renaissance women's clothes. Above, Miss Roscoe herself demonstrates the steps — tie, wrap and pin for an instant outfit.

Cincinnati May Lose Rail Route

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — An AMTRAK official says the Newport News-to-Cincinnati rail passenger run "is not very profitable," increasing speculation the run may be discontinued next year. Similar speculation was raised about Richmond's Broad Street Station.

However, David Watts, AMTRAK's vice president for planning, told a news conference here Wednesday the decisions would not be made for some time.

"It's entirely too early to speculate what might happen next year," he said.

Watts noted that legislation creating the National Railroad Passenger Corp. provides that, as of May, 1973, AMTRAK will be free to discontinue unprofitable passenger service.

According to Watts, the Newport News-to-Cincinnati run "is not very profitable" and ranks near the bottom in percentage traffic volume in the nation.

Watts said AMTRAK will conduct an intensive survey of passenger volume on all of its runs next year before eliminating or adding any service.

He said Richmond's ponderous Broad Street Station is on a list of major terminal facilities across the country that is most costly to maintain. For that reason, he said, it may be among the first to be eliminated.

Ironton Man Wins Railroad Suit

CINCINNATI (AP) — Carl Tagg of Ironton has won a $45,000 judgment against his former employer, the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co.

Tagg was injured in 1969 while working at the Ashland, Ky., yards of the C&O.

A U.S. District Court jury here set the award Wednesday. The jury assessed damages at $60,000 but said that Tagg's own negligence contributed about 25 per cent to the accident.

The first backbone animals on land were certain fishes that lived in shallow water and in times of drought could survive on land because they had air bladders that could be used as lungs.

Maybe you know her as Miss Lizzie or Granny Hill or Aunt Mary Jones. Through the years she's been a tower of strength in her community... helping with the sick, sharing with the poor... a friend to all.

She doesn't seem to worry about the future, just looks to the brighter side and is happy. You envy her, thinking she gets much out of life that you miss. Does she have a secret, a magic formula?

No, you can't say that her fellowship with God is a secret, for God is for everyone!

Would you like to possess some of her strength to look ahead, to face danger and conquer fear? The Church can help you reach this goal. All through the years it has strengthened mankind and helped him find the best in himself and in others.

Maybe you know her as Miss Lizzie or Granny Hill or Aunt Mary Jones. Through the years she's been a tower of strength in her community... helping with the sick, sharing with the poor... a friend to all.

She doesn't seem to worry about the future, just looks to the brighter side and is happy. You envy her, thinking she gets much out of life that you miss. Does she have a secret, a magic formula?

No, you can't say that her fellowship with God is a secret, for God is for everyone!

Would you like to possess some of her strength to look ahead, to face danger and conquer fear? The Church can help you reach this goal. All through the years it has strengthened mankind and helped him find the best in himself and in others.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Rouse A Lawyer

DEAR ABBY: I am at my wits' end. I live in a four-flat building, but my landlady and her two grown, unmarried sons live here, and those sons make so much noise I am about to go stark mad!

What happened to the ordinance about disturbing the peace? I called the police after 10 p.m. to report this racket and they said, "Take a shot lady, and go to sleep."

I am not a drinking woman, and I am not going to "take a shot" so I can get some sleep. I have gone to my son's home when things have been so noisy I wasn't able to sleep here, but why should I pay good rent to sleep somewhere else?

I am a widow and have been under a doctor's care since my husband died a year ago. This landlady told me I could tear up my lease and move any time, but the apartment I want to move to isn't available for another 90 days. So what am I going to do in the meantime?

GOING MAD IN CHICAGO
DEAR GOING: Talk to your lawyer. You shouldn't be expected to pay rent for an apartment in which you cannot sleep.

DEAR ABBY: My older sister Nancy has been married to Joe for a year. About a month ago Joe joined the Navy. He'll be in the Navy training program for nine weeks, during which time Nancy is staying with me and my husband. It's a break for me because I am expecting a baby next month and Nancy is a big help right now. But here's the problem:

My husband's best friend Lenny, who is single, has been dating Nancy regularly. My husband thinks it's okay; in fact, he is pushing it. It's plain to see that Nancy and Lenny are very much interested in each other.

I don't approve of married women dating, and told Nancy how I felt about it, and she said, "Joe told me to have a good time."

I'm afraid if I kicked Nancy out, she'd go stay with Lenny. Yet I don't feel right letting her date. What should I do?

NANCY'S SIS
DEAR SIS: Having told Nancy that you disapprove of her dating, you have done all you can do. Your husband appears to have been the "architect" in this deal. Shame on him. I wonder how he'd like it if YOU dated?

DEAR ABBY: How would you cope with people who barge in on you unexpectedly after 9:30 in the evening? We have these so-called friends who spend every night of the week "dropping in" on victims like ourselves. I say "victims" because in my household (and most others I know about) by this hour we are already preparing to go to bed.

Naturally when friends call, you have to act pleased and sit around entertaining them until they are ready to go home. What would you do?

ANNOYED
DEAR ANNOYED: I would greet them with, "I am so sorry you didn't call earlier to say you were coming. We were just going to bed. Good night."

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST ASKING": Technically, the only brother in law you have is the husband of your sister, or brother of your wife.

'Deadeye' Wins Horseshoe Crown

By HENRY HEILBRUNN
Associated Press Writer

GREENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Annie Oakley stepped back, nodded her head signaling she was prepared. Up went the playing card, thin edge toward her. Pow. A bullseye at 90 feet and five more bullet holes in the card before it hit the dust.

The Greenville, Ohio, native can rest assured that this week "Deadeye" is still hitting targets the way Annie used to—even during her irregular rest-stops on the horseshoe court in her hometown.

"Deadeye" does it all the time, too. A ringer every throw.

"Deadeye" is Walter Williams Jr. The 12-year-old has won the Junior Boys' World Horseshoe Pitching Championship for the second consecutive year. He won the title the way Annie would in her own territory—with a phenomenal 90.1 ringer percentage and beating his own 11-year-old brother, Jeffrey.

In a typical western spirit, Jeff says he's "pretty sure" he'll beat "Deadeye" next year in the world championship to be held in their hometown of Arcata, Calif.

Annie was a top shooter—beating even the rest of her family. Jeff, who tries harder being number two, says his father, W. Ray, is "alright, but we're better."

Dad started the family on horseshoes. "When the family was gaining size we had to pick up something that wasn't expensive recreation." So the nine Williams throw ringers.

The seven-year-old twin boys are sidelined this tournament seeing how it's done before they enter next year.

Williams said the competition within the family doesn't break the spirit of togetherness. "They practice together right up until the time they come to pitching. They're great brothers. When they get to the court, it's all concentration. After the contest they spent two hours together replaying every game."

Williams said his son "is one of the few people who have a natural swing and tremendous concentration. He just throws and puts the shoes on the stake."

He said when "Deadeye" first started he had 90 per cent ringers within seven months. He had the highest tournament average ringers in the world with 90.4 per cent and the only person to pitch four perfect games in sanctioned world play, the older Williams said.

Perhaps brother Jeff may have to listen to "Deadeye's" advice when the champ says the one and one-quarter pitch usually lands open and goes on the stake easier. Jeff, even after hearing "Deadeye's" thoughts, says he still favors the one and three-quarter pitch. "I play my best and do what I can."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jack Jones' assets will be under the control of a receiver until the singer's dispute with his former business manager can be resolved in Superior Court.

BCI Gets Federal Cash Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification Thursday learned it will get funds to expand its staff by 23 persons, but it still hasn't seen the money.

"I don't know when we can start hiring," said John Driscoll, administration chief of the London crime-probing operation.

Driscoll said he thought it would be at least 30 days before BCI, now headed by former Columbus Police Chief Dwight Joseph, can begin expanding its 135-member staff.

The federal government, through the Law Enforcement Assistance Act, made a $445,000 grant to BCI. The agency assists local law enforcement agencies in scientific crime analysis.

Driscoll said it would enable BCI to add eight investigators to its current staff of 20; eight criminologists to its present 30; three fingerprint experts to the 17 it now has and boost the clerical staff from 35 to 39.

"The funds will enable us to increase our support to local law enforcement agencies," Driscoll said. The agency supplies technical investigative know-how for any local police agency requesting help.

Between 1967 and 1972, Driscoll said, BCI's caseload increased 247 per cent. In addition to its lab in London, the agency provides mobile lab assistance at crime scenes.

It also has regional crime labs in West Richfield and Fremont. Over the years, BCI has gained a reputation for providing crime scene analysis for use in court. Its agents testify in hundreds of murder cases each year.

Kentucky City Flooded

MOREHEAD, Ky. (AP) — Water stood one to one and one-half feet deep in the center of the city here Thursday night as 5.1 inches of rain fell in less than four hours.

City firemen evacuated about eight persons from low-lying parts of the city, and Fireman Harry Hosack said parts of the city had been without power for more than two hours.

Officials said the rain stopped shortly after 11:30 p.m. EDT and was receding somewhat, but they remained fearful of possible runoff from surrounding areas.

State Police at Morehead said U.S. 60 was closed at intervals for about eight miles and said most of the area roads had between a foot and 1.5 feet of water on them.

Dispatcher Don McBrayer of the State Police said several area bridges were washed out.

The Commercial Point Homecoming Grand Parade will begin at 11 a.m. on Saturday morning. This will include the queens and kings and their courts, floats, old cars, horses, and many other specialties.

At 2 p.m., the Scioto Twp. Volunteer Firemen will have a water battle against several local fire departments: Circleville, Franklin Twp., Harrisburg, Harrison, Jackson Twp., Prairie Twp., Tarlton and Williamsport. Following the battle, there will be a Mosquito League baseball game.

At 9 p.m., Toad Reed will again lead round and square dancing; and at 11 p.m. the Men's Club will give away "his" and "her" bicycles, drawing the lucky winners from the advanced ride ticket stubs.

BCI Gets Federal Cash Boost

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Bureau of Criminal Investigation and Identification Thursday learned it will get funds to expand its staff by 23 persons, but it still hasn't seen the money.

"I don't know when we can start hiring," said John Driscoll, administration chief of the London crime-probing operation.

Driscoll said he thought it would be at least 30 days before BCI, now headed by former Columbus Police Chief Dwight Joseph, can begin expanding its 135-member staff.

The federal government, through the Law Enforcement Assistance Act, made a $445,000 grant to BCI. The agency assists local law enforcement agencies in scientific crime analysis.

Driscoll said it would enable BCI to add eight investigators to its current staff of 20; eight criminologists to its present 30; three fingerprint experts to the 17 it now has and boost the clerical staff from 35 to 39.

"The funds will enable us to increase our support to local law enforcement agencies," Driscoll said. The agency supplies technical investigative know-how for any local police agency requesting help.

Between 1967 and 1972, Driscoll said, BCI's caseload increased 247 per cent. In addition to its lab in London, the agency provides mobile lab assistance at crime scenes.

It also has regional crime labs in West Richfield and Freemont. Over the years, BCI has gained a reputation for providing crime scene analysis for use in court. Its agents testify in hundreds of murder cases each year.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY
Herald Sports Editor

Once again we braved the wonders of the Pickaway County Fair, armed with our vast knowledge of fair activities, and are happy to report we survived another one.

Being a city boy, we astounded people with our ability to tell the difference between a cow and a hog. The last several years, we must confess, we were not too knowledgeable in the animal department.

But this year we were prepared with the help of the better half of the McGaffney clan. Jerry, being brilliant in all matters, solved the confusion with the remark that "It's easy to tell the difference, hogs are the ones with the curly tails".

With our consultant in tow, back to the Fair we went. We watched the judging of some animals, the ones with the long tails, but found we were lacking in judging ability when our pick was the first one eliminated.

After suffering this setback, we decided the failure might have been due to lack of nourishment so we consumed some french fries, with vinegar, a couple egg rolls, an apple fritter, sausage sandwich and soft drinks. If Dr. Bob McCoy reads this, we're only kidding.

All the time we were enjoying the delightful repast, some darling child was rubbing his sticky candy apple all over our arm.

Then the heavens turned against us and let loose with some heavy moisture. But, always looking ahead, we were prepared for the downpour with our red, green, blue and yellow golf umbrella.

When the wind turned our umbrella inside out, we decided fate was against us and we made our way through the mud to our car.

As we made our way home through the driving rain, we showed true pioneer spirit and both came to the conclusion that we couldn't wait until next year when we could do it all over again.

Our "fearless" forecast — Maybe we're just being sentimental but we're pulling for Arnie in the PGA... We like the Bengals over Green Bay in the exhibition clash.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Nate Colbert Ties Homers-In-Week Mark

By TOM EMORY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Nate Colbert of San Diego has opened another page of the National League record book but Chicago's Bill Hands has discovered he should let his fingers do the walking.

Colbert, who slugged two homers in Houston Sunday and five more in a doubleheader in Atlanta Tuesday, blasted a two-run circuit in the Padres 6-5 victory over Atlanta Thursday night to tie the league record for most homers in a week.

Hands, a Cubs' right-hander, couldn't handle a ground ball off the bat of Montreal's Ken Singleton in the seventh inning and lost his chance for a no-hitter as Chicago beat the Expos 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader. Montreal won the first game 2-1.

In other NL games, Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 3-0, Philadelphia beat New York 4-1 and Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 2-1.

"I just hope I can keep my stroke," said Colbert, who is tied with Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh in 1947 and Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati in 1956. "I hope it never ends."

The Padres' first baseman, who leads the majors with 31 homers and 84 runs batted in, said he actually was more impressed with the feat of Dale Long of Pittsburgh in 1956, who hit homers in eight straight games.

Colbert's five homers and 13 RBI Tuesday night tied the mark for circuits in a doubleheader and broke the mark for runs batted in and total bases in two games.

The Padres won the game in the 11th inning on three singles, the last was a broken-bat hit by Dave Roberts.

Hands didn't live up to his name. He had pitched perfect ball through 6 1-3 innings before he gave up a walk to Clyde Mashore. Singleton then hit a chopper, which bounced off Hands' glove and went into right field.

After the hit, Hands walked Ron Fairly to load the bases. Manager Whitey Lockman visited the mound and Hands settled down, getting Boots Day to hit into a double play.

"If that doesn't beat everything, Poppy (second baseman Paul Popovich) told me if I had let the ball alone we would have had a double play on Singleton."

A bases-loaded walk to Rick Monday in the first inning gave the Cubs the lead. They scored two more runs in the sixth on an RBI-single by Ron Santo and a passed ball charged to catcher Terry Humphrey.

In the opener, Ron Woods pinch-hit single in the 13th inning drove in the winning Montreal run. He came to bat with the bases loaded after a single, a hit batsman and an intentional walk. Montreal starter Ernie McAnally gave up just one hit to the Cubs in the first six innings but Mike Marshall 9-3, came on to relieve and get the victory.

Los Angeles' Tommy John pitched a three-hitter for his first complete-game shutout of the season. Willie Davis and Manny Mota had RBI singles and Wes Parker hit a sacrifice fly for the Dodgers. San Francisco collected two singles by Dave Rader and a double by Tito Fuentes. John, 9-5, hurled five innings of no-hit baseball before Rader singled leading off the sixth.

The Philadelphia victory over the New York Mets was their third straight. Denny Doyle hit a home run and scored twice for the Phils. Willie Montanez doubled in a run and Tom Hutton had a sacrifice fly for the winners. The lone Met run came on an infield groundout.

Vic Davalillo stroked a two-out single in the 10th inning to drive in Pittsburgh's winning run. The Pirates hit three singles in the 10th after St. Louis starter Rick Wise had given up just three safeties in the first nine innings. The Cards' Lou Brock tied the game 1-1 in the fifth after Pittsburgh scored the first run in the second inning on a walk to Willie Stargell and a triple by Dave Cash.

Piranhas Win League Crown

The Circleville "Piranha" Swim Team ended their Mt. Pleasant Swim League season Thursday, with a 368-170 victory over the Chillicothe Swim Team, and with a 6-0 season, won the League Championship.

Circleville swimmers won 12 of 18 relays, and 35 of 46 individual events. They also took 31 seconds and 16 thirds in the 64 event meet.

Top individual winners were: Jeff Davies, Steve Penn, Lisa Lintner, Cindy Sparks and Jay L. Arledge, each with three wins. Winning two events were: Rojanne Bowers, Dave Resler, Janice Meschke, John McCoy, John Whatley, and Mark Beck. Single winners were: Terri Strawser, Ross Meschke, Kelly England, Kelly Steele, Marcy

Hutchison, Jeff Lackey, Nancy Guenther and Mike Cairns.

Circleville coaches, reflecting on the past season, consider the 1972 "Piranha" the most powerful Circleville team in the past eight years. The swimmers were dedicated to win this championship, said head coach Jim Shea, and they worked hard every day that they practiced since last January 15th, when their first practice session was held.

The local swimmers will officially end their swimming season on Sunday when they take part in the Mt. Pleasant "Individual Championship" meet. In this meet team points are not kept but individual points are kept for each swimmer in the league. Trophies will be awarded to each first place individual winner, with medals to second and third place and ribbons to each fourth, fifth and sixth place winners.

Medals will go to each member of a relay team for first, second and third place, with ribbons to each member of a team placing fourth, fifth and sixth. Individual trophies will also go to the high scoring swimmer in each age group.

The Circleville Team will hold their annual "Awards Banquet" to officially close the 1972 season on Wednesday at Ted Lewis Park. The event will be a carry in affair for all swimmers, their families and friends.

Savings Bank, VFW Capture Pony Contests

Savings Bank and VFW were winners of the two closing games of the Pony League season Thursday at Ted Lewis Park.

Savings Bank beat Burger Chef, 14-6, with Allen Ranck and Biff Bumgarner hurling the victory.

The two pitchers gave up three hits, walked six and struck out 15.

Bumgarner was the big hitter for the winners, slugging two homers and a single, Robert Price rapped a homer and a single, Reynold Williams a triple, Tony Dray, Jeff Carter, Jami Hickey each hit two one baggers while Keith Poling and Carl Crable each singled.

DAVE Phillips took care of the mound duties for Burger Chef giving up 14 hits, walking six and fanning ten.

Jeff Funk, Bill Mogan and Tim Hartinger all hit singles for Burger Chef.

VFW topped Third National 3-0 using Doug McGlone on the hill.

McGlone permitted two hits, walked six and struck out 12.

Bo Barthelmas, Doug McGlone and Dan Fausnaugh all snacked one baggers for VFW.

Herb Lutz was throwing off the mound for the Bankers, giving up three hits, walking five and whiffing nine.

LUTZ and Tim Brown both singled for the losers.

Stan Thirsk, Bud Allin Tie In Opening Round Of PGA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — "Men, I'm sorry I made you miss your dinners," apologized Stan Thirsk with a grin, "but I really enjoyed it."

That's the way the virtual golfing unknown from Shawnee Mission, Kan., signed off his news conference after stunning reporters by strolling off the Oakland Hills Country Club course with a two-under par 68 Thursday for a share of the lead with Bud Allin after the first round of the 54th PGA National Championship.

Most reporters had their stories all wrapped up and were ready to go home, having written about another relatively obscure pro, Allin, who came in early with a 68 and appeared certain to stay on top alone.

But the 44-year-old Thirsk—that's Th-i-r-s-k—birdied three holes on the back nine, including two of the last four, which put him two under. He was the last golfer off the course.

Although the 27-year-old Allin's name isn't a household word either among golf followers, he did win $55,786 last year in his first season on the tour and was at least vaguely familiar to the more than 300 writers covering the prestigious event.

Allin and Thirsk are leading such notables as Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Palmer was among the early leaders and finished with a one-under 69. The PGA is the only major championship he has not won.

Trevino, criticizing himself for using the wrong club four times, shot a 73 while Nicklaus was in at 72 along with Player.

Joining the one-under group was another nearly unknown pro, Larry Gilbert of Fayetteville, Tenn. Jerry Heard, who has already won two tour events year, was at 69 also, along with Ray Floyd and Jim Jamieson.

Reds' Young Ross Grimsley Thrives On Tight Spots

By JOHN W. CHACE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Young Ross Grimsley, developing into one of the National League's top starting pitchers, thrives on getting into jams.

A far distance from Cincinnati's Indianapolis farm club where he started the season, the 22-year-old Reds lefthander said, "I seem to try a lot harder when men are on base. I know that when a man is on base and in scoring position, I have to make the good pitch to get out of the inning without getting hurt."

Grimsley last displayed his ability in tough situations when he shut out the San Francisco Giants last Sunday. He seemed to save his best pitches until after he had run into jams in late innings, and prevented the Giants from placing runners in scoring position, even when none was out.

"I give up a lot of home runs," Grimsley said, pointing out he has allowed 10 homers in 117 innings this year. "But as long as nobody is on base, it doesn't hurt too much. Usually when men get on base, I seem to bear down. I don't really know how to explain it."

With his earned run average of 2.31, the 6-foot-3, 195-pound hurler stands among the top five starters in the National League. He also boasts a 9-4 record.

Last year, in his rookie season, he posted a 10-7 record with a 3.51 ERA. But his performance in spring training this year was not impressive, and he was sent to Indianapolis. The Reds said they wanted to make sure he got plenty of work.

"I couldn't concentrate at all down there," Grimsley said. "I just griped. I was really disgusted and didn't see a reason for it and I still don't. But I don't talk about it now."

"I was asked if it helped me," he continued. "It didn't help me at all."

Grimsley said that since he rejoined the parent team this year, he has gained more confidence with each outing, and said he hopes to win 15 games.

"But you just go out and do the best you can," he added.

Willie's Dillies

By BILL MCGAFFNEY

Once again we braved the wonders of the Pick-away County Fair, armed with our vast knowledge of fair activities, and are happy to report we survived another one.

Being a city boy, we astounded people with our ability to tell the difference between a cow and a hog. The last several years, we must confess, we were not too knowledgeable in the animal department.

But this year we were prepared with the help of the better half of the McGaffney clan. Jerry, being brilliant in all matters, solved the confusion with the remark that "It's easy to tell the difference, hogs are the ones with the curly tails".

With our consultant in tow, back to the Fair we went. We watched the judging of some animals, the ones with the long tails, but found we were lacking in judging ability when our pick was the first one eliminated.

After suffering this setback, we decided the failure might have been due to lack of nourishment so we consumed some french fries, with vinegar, a couple egg rolls, an apple fritter, sausage sandwich and soft drinks. If Dr. Bob McCoy reads this, we're only kidding.

All the time we were enjoying the delightful repast, some darling child was rubbing his sticky candy apple all over our arm.

Then the heavens turned against us and let loose with some heavy moisture. But, always looking ahead, we were prepared for the downpour with our red, green, blue and yellow golf umbrellas.

When the wind turned our umbrella inside out, we decided fate was against us and we made our way through the mud to our car.

As we made our way home through the driving rain, we showed true pioneer spirit and both came to the conclusion that we couldn't wait until next year when we could do it all over again.

Our "fearless" forecast — Maybe we're just being sentimental but we're pulling for Arnie in the PGA... We like the Bengals over Green Bay in the exhibition clash.

Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Nate Colbert Ties Homers-In-Week Mark

By TOM EMORY

Associated Press Sports Writer
Nate Colbert of San Diego has opened another page of the National League record book but Chicago's Bill Hands has discovered he should let his fingers do the walking.

Colbert, who slugged two homers in Houston Sunday and five more in a doubleheader in Atlanta Tuesday, blasted a two-run circuit in the Padres 6-5 victory over Atlanta Thursday night to tie the league record for most homers in a week.

Hands, a Cubs' right-hander, couldn't handle a ground ball off the bat of Montreal's Ken Singleton in the seventh inning and lost his chance for a no-hitter as Chicago beat the Expos 3-0 in the second game of a doubleheader. Montreal won the first game 2-1.

In other NL games, Los Angeles blanked San Francisco 3-0, Philadelphia beat New York 4-1 and Pittsburgh edged St. Louis 2-1.

"I just hope I can keep my stroke," said Colbert, who is tied with Ralph Kiner of Pittsburgh in 1947 and Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati in 1956. "I hope it never ends."

The Padres' first baseman, who leads the majors with 31 homers and 84 runs batted in, said he actually was more impressed with the feat of Dale Long of Pittsburgh in 1956, who hit homers in eight straight games.

Colbert's five homers and 13 RBI Tuesday night tied the mark for circuits in a doubleheader and broke the mark for runs batted in and total bases in two games.

The Padres won the game in the 11th inning on three singles, the last was a broken-bat hit by Dave Roberts.

Hands didn't live up to his name. He had pitched perfect ball through 6 1/3 innings before he gave up a walk to Clyde Mashore, Singleton then hit a chopper, which bounced off Hands' glove and went into right field.

After the hit, Hands walked Ron Fairly to load the bases. Manager Whitey Lockman visited the mound and Hands settled down, getting Boots Day to hit into a double play.

"If that doesn't beat everything, Poppy (second baseman Paul Popovich) told me if I had let the ball alone we would have had a double play on Singleton."

A bases-loaded walk to Rick Monday in the first inning gave the Cubs the lead. They scored two more runs in the sixth on an RBI-single by Ron Santo and a passed ball charged to catcher Terry Humphrey.

In the opener, Ron Woods pinch-hit single in the 13th inning drove in the winning Montreal run. He came to bat with the bases loaded after a single, a hit batsman and an intentional walk. Montreal starter Ernie McAnally gave up just one hit to the Cubs in the first six innings but Mike Marshall 9-3, came on to relieve and get the victory.

Los Angeles' Tommy John pitched a three-hitter for his first complete-game shutout of the season. Willie Davis and Manny Mota had RBI singles and Wes Parker hit a sacrifice fly for the Dodgers. San Francisco collected two singles by Dave Rader and a double by Tito Fuentes. John, 9-5, hurled five innings of no-hit baseball before Rader singled leading off the sixth.

The Philadelphia victory over the New York Mets was their third straight. Denny Doyle hit a home run and scored twice for the Phils. Willie Montanez doubled in a run and Tom Hutton had a sacrifice fly for the winners. The lone Met run came on an infield groundout.

Vic Davalillo stroked a two-out single in the 10th inning to drive in Pittsburgh's winning run. The Pirates hit three singles in the 10th after St. Louis starter Rick Wise had given up just three safeties in the first nine innings. The Cards' Lou Brock tied the game 1-1 in the fifth after Pittsburgh scored the first run in the second inning on a walk to Willie Stargell and a triple by Dave Cash.

Top individual winners were: Jeff Davies, Steve Penn, Lisa Lintner, Cindy Sparks and Jay L. Arledge, each with three wins. Circleville coaches, reflecting on the past season, consider the 1972 "Piranha" the most powerful Circleville team in the past eight years. The swimmers were dedicated to win this championship, said head coach Jim Shea, and they worked hard every day that they practiced since last January 15th, when their first practice session was held.

The local swimmers will officially end their swimming season on Sunday when they take part in the Mt. Pleasant "Individual Championship" meet. In this meet team points are not kept but individual points are kept for each swimmer in the league. Trophies will be awarded to each first place individual winner, with medals to second and third place and ribbons to each fourth, fifth and sixth place winners.

Medals will go to each member of a relay team for first, second and third place, with ribbons to each member of a team placing fourth, fifth and sixth. Individual trophies will also go to the high scoring swimmer in each age group.

The Circleville Team will hold their annual "Awards Banquet" to officially close the 1972 season on Wednesday at Ted Lewis Park. The event will be a carry in affair for all swimmers, their families and friends.

Stan Thirsk, Bud Allin Tie In Opening Round Of PGA

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — "Men, I'm sorry I made you miss your dinners," apologized Stan Thirsk with a grin, "but I really enjoyed it."

That's the way the virtual golfing unknown from Shawnee Mission, Kan., signed off his news conference after stunning reporters by strolling off the Oakland Hills Country Club course with a two-under par 68 Thursday for a share of the lead with Bud Allin after the first round of the 54th PGA National Championship.

Most reporters had their stories all wrapped up and were ready to go home, having written about another relatively obscure pro, Allin, who came in early with a 68 and appeared certain to stay on top alone.

But the 44-year-old Thirsk—that's T-h-i-r-s-k—birdied three holes on the back nine, including two of the last four, which put him two under. He was the last golfer off the course.

Although the 27-year-old Allin's name isn't a household word either among golf followers, he did win $55,786 last year in his first season on the tour and was at least vaguely familiar to the more than 300 writers covering the prestigious event.

Allin and Thirsk are leading such notables as Arnold Palmer, Lee Trevino, Jack Nicklaus and Gary Player.

Palmer was among the early leaders and finished with a one-under 69. The PGA is the only major championship he has not won.

Trevino, criticizing himself for using the wrong club four times, shot a 73 while Nicklaus was in at 72 along with Player. Joining the one-under group was another nearly unknown pro, Larry Gilbert of Fayetteville, Tenn. Jerry Heard, who has already won two tour events year, was at 69 also, along with Ray Floyd and Jim Jamieson.

Reds' Young Ross Grimsley Thrives On Tight Spots

By JOHN W. CHACE

Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — Young Ross Grimsley, developing into one of the National League's top starting pitchers, thrives on getting into jams.

A far distance from Cincinnati's Indianapolis farm club where he started the season, the 22-year-old Reds left-hander said, "I seem to try a lot harder when men are on base. I know that when a man is on base and in scoring position, I have to make the good pitch to get out of the inning without getting hurt."

Grimsley last displayed his ability in tight situations when he shut out the San Francisco Giants last Sunday. He seemed to save his best pitches until after he had run into jams in late innings, and prevented the Giants from placing runners in scoring position, even when none was out.

"I give up a lot of home runs," Grimsley said, pointing out he has allowed 10 homers in 117 innings this year. "But as long as nobody is on base, it doesn't hurt too much. Usually when men get on base, I seem to bear down. I don't really know how to explain it."

With his earned run average of 2.31, the 6-foot-3, 195-pound hurler stands among the top five starters in the National League. He also boasts a 9-4 record.

Last year, in his rookie season, he posted a 10-7 record with a 3.51 ERA. But his performance in spring training this year was not impressive, and he was sent to Indianapolis. The Reds said they wanted to make sure he got plenty of work.

"I couldn't concentrate at all down there," Grimsley said. "I just griped. I was really disgusted and didn't see a reason for it and I still don't. But I don't talk about it now."

"I was asked if it helped me," he continued. "It didn't help me at all."

Grimsley said that since he rejoined the parent team this year, he has gained more confidence with each outing, and said he hopes to win 15 games.

"But you just go out and do the best you can," he added.

Olympic Game Costs Criticized

By DAVID MINTHORN
MUNICH, Germany (AP) — "You can have the Olympic Games," a Munich gas station attendant remarked. "That's for the nobility. The average man pays the bills."

The attendant reflected the view shared by a substantial number of the city's 1.3 million residents, who believe the Games have done little more for them than raise the already high cost of living.

The Olympic budget has soared to 1.972 billion marks or the equivalent of $612 million—triple the original estimate, and four times higher than the costs of the 1968 Games at Mexico City.

The "Kosten Boom"—cost boom as it is known locally—has set off a public debate on whether the money could not have found better uses in Munich.

Munich newspapers and civic groups, meanwhile, have started campaigns against "Olympic profiteers." Their targets are hotels and restaurants that have hiked prices for the Games, which run from Aug. 26 to Sept. 10.

White-haired Carl Mert, president of the Olympic Construction Company, insists that "building costs of the sports installations have remained approximately the same as original estimates."

"We have ended up spending about $217 million for sport facilities. This figure included construction that was entirely unforeseen when the first estimate was made," Mert said.

One unforeseen expense has been the tenfold increase in costs of the architectural showpiece of the games—the tentlike roof of steel and spun glass draped over the $8,000 capacity Olympic Stadium and two nearby arenas.

In view of Munich's critical housing shortage and prodigious traffic congestion, residents of the Bavarian capital have been prone to ponder other uses for the reported $52 million dollars spent on the world's largest roof.

Rising costs of material, such as steel, and labor are blamed by Games organizers for much of the Olympic construction cost spiral. In the case of the roof, bureaucracy also played a role.

"We were certain of our stress calculations," reported the 64-year-old Mert. "Yet, city building officials demanded that we undertake electronic tests of the stresses. We lost nine months of building time to confirm what we already knew."

Total construction costs for Olympic facilities in Munich and Kiel, the Baltic seaport for yachting competitions, are figured at $434 million.

The remaining $178 million in the Olympic budget is being spent for organizational and operations costs.

Less than 25 per cent of the games financing is being underwritten by local, state and federal governments. The remainder is to be covered by sales of Olympic coins, souvenirs, television rights, Games tickets and what the organizers like to refer to as other "painless" fund-raising activities.

Reacting to complaints by some Munich residents that Olympic construction has altered the city's "Gemuetlichkeit" or "cozy urbanity," Mert, a Berliner, said:

"That's part of the character of the Muencheners. They would rather have their peace and quiet. But we all know that the subway and rapid transit trains will be the savior of this city, freeing downtown from traffic congestion."

A housewife said she had noticed price increases in downtown stores and she attributed this to Olympic Games profiteering.

"I think the Games have improved the city with such things as the downtown shopping mall," she said. "But there is still the traffic congestion. I won't be going to the Games because it's easier and cheaper to watch on television."

A waiter in a downtown restaurant said he was shocked by prices charged by restaurants in the Olympic Park.

"They are selling wiener schmitzel—breaded veal cutlet, for $3.70 a portion and beer for $1.40 a glass," he said. "I wouldn't pay so much when I can get the same here for $3.07 and 62 cents."

Asked the city government's position on "Olympic prices," municipal spokesman Josef Heiger said attempts would be made to bring "moral pressure" on profiteers.

He added: "If someone tried to sell a glass of beer for $3.10, then I think it would be fair to call that Olympic profiteering."

Nelle Francis is guest columnist this week. Her views on books are those of a reader with wide interest, good taste, and literary judgement.

"Malpractice" by Eleazar Lipsky, is indeed an engrossing novel. It deals with up-to-date issues. There is a racial angle

— a poorly run hospital with Jewish personnel, dedicated and conscientious. There is an effort to help those who actually need help. Last but not least is a touching, very technical court scene with good lawyers and testimony. Makes very good reading.

"First Blood" is based on a Kentucky feud. Chief combatants are a police chief, a Marine in Korea and the Kid, Wearer of the Green Beret and the Medal of Honor from Viet Nam, the Kid is a worthy opponent. In their fight there are dozens killed. This is a story of pain and heartbreak; the reader suffers with the boy in his strategies, his hurts, and his theorizing. He has been a prisoner in a hole in the ground and has been tortured and hospitalized in the States. Since he enlisted to help the down-trodden and to end the war, he can't understand why things are as they are. This is a story that should be read — no drugs, just cuts, scars, and broken flesh from whiplashes! Written by David Morrell.

If you like to cuddle up with a good mystery, you may enjoy some that Mrs. Francis has read recently. First is "The Kid Who Came Home with a Corpse." It is about a kidnapping, the ransom to be used to cover a shortage in a business concern.

"Murder-Go-Round" by Agatha Christie comprises three complete novels. Their murders and funerals star the Belgian sleuth Hercule Poirot with his famous moustaches. In the first Lord Edgware is stabbed. In the second a number of printed letters are sent to Poirot, challenging him to solve a murder announced on a certain day. The third involves a large family and their in-laws. Miss Christie's stories are full of suspense.

In "The Bronze Claws" a lovely ex-hippie hires a young lawyer to help her find her hippie brother. He has been missing for several years. A series of strange meetings keeps the reader blinded to the actual eventualities. Very good.

Wall Street bank financing is the mystery theme of "The Longer the Thread". It concerns a Puerto Rican garment factory, sabotage, murder, arson, and a youth uprising. A solution resolves itself in the desire of Puerto Ricans to have a hand in the foreign enterprises. The factory goes into half and half ownership.

"Birthday, Death Day" is an interracial story of a Chinese mogul and his oriental retinue who take over the main hotels in New York. Cosmetic surgery has concealed the identity of a young man sworn to avenge a wrong to his family. Makes interesting reading.

Praise Southeast Ohio Libraries

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 28-county southeastern Ohio region libraries won praise in the latest issue of "Appalachia," the journal published by the Appalachian Regional Commission in Washington for national circulation.

State Librarian Joseph Shubert said recent changes have enabled libraries in that mostly rural area to defer "big city" services.

The libraries aid residents in starting businesses, qualifying for jobs and earning scholarships.

Boys Find Money, Go Out On Spree

BELFORD, N.J. (AP) — Two small boys went on a spree Wednesday after they found a wallet containing $180.

The boys, 6 and 8, bought themselves candy, sodas, ice cream and then in a generous mood, started giving away money to playmates. The spree came to an end when the mother of one of the boys learned of the find.

California Welfare Rolls Continue To Show Decline

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Sixteen months ago California's welfare rolls were growing by 40,000 a month and Gov. Ronald Reagan called public assistance "a monster" that threatened to bankrupt the Golden State.

Nearly 2.3 million persons or one out of every 10 were on welfare. The annual tab, including medical care, was consuming a third of the state's $6.5 billion budget.

Since then there has been a turnaround which Reagan points to as one of the major achievements of his 6-year-old administration.

Today, the state's welfare rolls are down by a net of 205,000 since March 1971 with drops in 13 of the past 15 months — through this past June. The June decline alone was 39,696, Reagan said.

"This dramatic decline has been achieved in the face of rising welfare costs and caseload increase elsewhere across the nation during the same period," the vacationing Reagan said in a news statement issued Wednesday.

Reagan made welfare reform his major goal of 1971 and achieved partial success in a compromise bill worked out with the legislature. Its provisions include tougher eligibility for getting on welfare, a program to track down absent fathers who won't support their families and a major effort at weeding out fraud.

About 18,000 of the June drop of 39,696 came in a category that is directly related to California's level of unemployment, which declined from 775,000 in March 1971 to 570,000 in June.

And the level of permanent recipients on Aid to Families with Dependent Children — not directly related to unemployment — was higher this June than June a year ago: 1,272,425 compared with 1,253,135.

Some critics say such things as the better economy, the rising number of abortions and the declining rate of immigration all are factors. There are 400,000 more Californians on the job now than in March 1971.

Security Camera Not So Secure

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A $2,500 closed-circuit television camera being used by security guards at Warner and Swasey Company in Cleveland was stolen Wednesday.

Guards said they saw the parking lot camera screen go blank and thought it was a malfunction. A service man called to fix the camera found wires cut and the camera missing.

Judge Won't Reopen Case

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Saying the court could not "arbitrarily act on the matter," Montgomery County Common Pleas Judge Walter Rice has refused to review evidence presented to the grand jury in the fatal shooting of a robbery suspect.

The coroner's office has ruled the shooting of Billy Cooper, 30, during a police raid at a motel July 5 was a homicide, but the grand jury declined to return an indictment.

Montgomery County Prosecutor Lee Falke asked the court to review the evidence after meeting with Dayton black leaders who said they were concerned about tension in their community.

Cooper was killed by a shotgun blast fired through a motel room door by Tipp City Police Chief Jack Cheadle.

Cheadle and other officers were attempting to arrest Cooper and James Renfro, 27, of Hamilton, both black, in connection with a series of armed robberies.

sacraments, including Communion. But approved ways now are gradually developing for them to do it.

Some dioceses are welcoming them back into full participation — if they themselves assert a "good conscience" about it.

The rules barring them from sharing in the Church's central rites have long been a source of anguish to many American Catholics involved in remarriages, as well as to their wives or husbands, who often are Protestants.

Generally, under Catholic law banning the breakup of a valid marriage, Church members who have divorced anyhow and remarried still remain cut off from Communion in most dioceses — automatically excommunicated.

But in a few areas, changed practices are taking shape.

Laurelville Sets Student Sign-Up

New students in the Laurelville area, who will be enrolled in kindergarten through grade eight, will be registered Aug. 11.

Parents with students qualifying should register the youth at the Laurelville School between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m. next Friday. Records of immunization as well as verification of birthdate should be provided for each student to be registered.

Bishop Robert Tracy, of Baton Rouge, La., recently announced that his diocese was setting up procedures for recognizing "good conscience" cases when divorced and remarried Catholics sincerely believe their first marriages were invalid, in spite of the apparent impossibility of getting it officially annulled by the Church.

"The Church has a pastoral responsibility of healing and forgiveness, following the example of Christ," Bishop Tracy said in a pastoral letter outlining the new approach.

A handful of other dioceses also are reportedly taking similar steps, including Portland, Ore.; Boise, Idaho, and Birmingham, Ala. Some others are said to be doing it on an occasional, informal basis.

The trend apparently arose because some priests occasionally have started counselling divorced, remarried Catholics to return to the sacraments. Rather than letting the process evolve haphazardly, the moves have turned up to regularize it. The matter also currently is under study by a U.S. Bishops' Pastoral Research and Practices Committee, although neither it nor the Vatican has issued any official modifications of the long-standing rules.

Labor Camp Shutdowns Are Sought

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Common pleas courts in three Northwestern Ohio counties were asked by the state Thursday to shut down seven migrant labor camps until they comply with the state's sanitary code.

Lawyers from the attorney general's office filed for injunctions in Wood, Ottawa and Sandusky counties to prohibit violators from housing migrant laborers in substandard and unsanitary dwellings.

"This is to force those unwilling operators to follow the lead of those who have complied with state laws which provide that all persons living in Ohio shall have a decent, safe and sanitary place to live," state Health Director John Cashman said in Columbus.

The court action follows a second inspection of camps by the Health Department.

Initial inspections of 630 camps in 32 counties last May showed 40 per cent of them had serious violations, officials said.

Violations included unsanitary water supplies, inadequate exits in housing, lack of first aid and fire protection equipment and unsanitary and poorly-constructed toilet facilities.

Since then a number of camps have improved conditions, but Cashman said "there are some individuals who are making an extremely bad image for all the migrant camp operators."
